False Security Seen In Viet Nam

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu says that if she were President Kennedy she would "inform the people" about the Communist danger "instead of being inclined to lull them into a false sense of security."

She made the statement in answering a question after her first speech of a 21-day tour of the United States.

The fiery sister-in-law of President Ngo Dinh Diem of South Viet Nam spoke to more than 1,000 persons at an Overseas Press Club luncheon Wednesday.

During a 1½-hour question period, she was asked what she would do if she were president of the United States to insure defeat of the Viet Cong Communist guerrillas in her country.

She replied: "I think that panic is very bad. . . but life can be good and pleasant without panic, if one knows that mentally, morally, one is prepared—that the whole people around us is prepared to meet the greatest danger of the times—Communism."

"So the first step would be then—to inform the people instead of being inclined to lull them into a false sense of security."

She said those were "impromptu" thoughts but she "may find other solutions afterwards."

In reply to another question, she said her father, Tran Van Chuong, was dismissed as South Vietnamese ambassador to the United States before he could resign.

Mrs. Nhu said the government at Saigon considered at a 2 a.m. meeting a "challenging" cable from her father, from whom she is estranged, and sent him a reply that his mission was finished.

Chuong told a questioner that his daughter's version "is certainly not true."

He said his cable protesting government policy against Buddhist opponents was sent Aug. 6, and he resigned Aug. 22 before he received a cable dismissing him. He added that his departure was called a resignation in the

Jobless Pay Claims Dip In the Area

Initial claims for unemployment insurance benefits, often an index to new unemployment, totaled 341 during August and 318 during September in the four-county area of Pettis, Benton, Morgan and Johnson, according to Russell Carr, manager of the Sedalia office of Employment Security which services these counties.

These totals are down 38 per cent and 6.7 per cent, respectively, compared to July and August of this year, Carr said Wednesday.

Weekly claims totaled 1,152 in August and 1,034 in September, down 31 per cent and 10.2 per cent compared to July and August. Benefits paid totaled $27,185.79 in August and $21,896.10 in September compared to $34,209.48 paid in July, 1963.

New applications for employment in August increased 10.7 per cent compared to July and decreased 16 per cent in September compared to August, Carr said.

Non-agricultural job openings increased 35 per cent in August compared to July and decreased 10.8 per cent in September compared to August; placements also showed an increase in both August and September by 34 per cent and 29 per cent.

"The increase in both job openings and placements is due primarily to a general increase of production in the local manufacturing industry," Carr said.

Farm job openings remained about the same in August compared to July, but increased in September.

Statewide unemployment insurance benefit payments declined moderately from both the preceding month and from September a year ago, LeRoy Shantz, director of the Missouri Division of Employment Security reported.

Payments in September to the state's jobless totaled $2,435,327, a decrease of 6.3 per cent from the $2,598,624 paid out in August and 7.6 per cent less than the $2,634,295 paid out in September a year ago.

Initial claims totaled 26,963 during September as compared to 29,993 during August, this year, and 25,843 in September a year ago. Total claims numbered 136,519 in September this year; down 6,423 from August and down 1,480 from September a year ago.

Asks Rezoning Of Property On South Limit

W. E. Bingaman, for Web & Sons, Inc., owners of the former State Fair Floral Co. property on South Limit, has made application to rezone the property from R-1, residence, to C-3, business.

The Zoning and Planning Commission has set the hearing date on the application for Oct. 31, at 7:30 p.m. in the Council chambers of City Hall. Parties and citizens in interest will be given an opportunity to be heard at the hearing.

Shortly before the property was sold to Web & Sons, the owners, Ladye Renshaw and Bettina Davis, made application for rezoning of part of the property now being considered for rezoning. This application was disapproved by the Zoning and Planning Commission, forwarded to the City Council, which tabled the application and recommendation for some time before finally going along with the commission's recommendation to disapprove the application.

The Web & Sons application includes Blocks 5, 6, 7, 9 and 10, Fair View Place, an addition to the City of Sedalia.

Italian Towns Under Water

BELLUNO, Italy (AP)—A massive Alpine landslide plunged into a deep, four-mile long reservoir in the night and hurled a tidal wave across the Vajont Dam upon sleeping villagers in the Piave River Valley. Hundreds perished in the boiling flood.

Three hundred bodies had been recovered by dawn and U.S. Army authorities who hurried to help said Italian sources estimated there were 3,000 dead.

Four towns with more than 6,000 residents virtually were wiped out and two hamlets on the edge of the reservoir disappeared in the catastrophe.

"The sight was just simply terrifying," said Dino Menardi, one of the first pilots to view the desolation. "I have never seen anything like it—not even in horror dreams."

Through it all the $73-foot-high concrete dam—the world's third highest—apparently stood intact. It is part of a hydroelectric complex.

Reconnaissance by a squadron of four U.S. helicopters led by Maj. Harvey C. Mayse of Wenatchee, Wash., refuted officials' initial reports that the wall of water had collapsed the dam.

"The landslide that plunged into the reservoir apparently caused a huge overflow," Mayse said. "From the air, the dam appeared to be in one piece."

The biggest and hardest hit of the towns was Longarone, with a population of 4,600.

Surviving officials there estimated their dead alone at 1,500 to 1,700. The community was virtually leveled into a barren, rock-strewn stretch of sand and mud. The vanished hamlets were St. Martino and Viaspessa.

Vice Prefect Carlo Prestamburgo said Cadisago, Rivalta and Pirago, with a total population of 1,500 were wiped out.

Several other villages including Castellazzo, with 1,000 inhabitants, were flooded as waters raised the level of the Piave's upper reaches by 16 feet.

Dozens of bodies tumbled and turned in the flood toward the Adriatic through this area of normally green cattle pastures, vegetables, fruits and sparkling red wine. Some were found in the mud ashore. Countless others were buried deep under rocks and sand.

Painting Dispute Leads To Strike Of About 70 Painters

A dispute over the use of spray painting equipment at Minuteman missile sites in west central Missouri led Wednesday to a strike of about 70 painters.

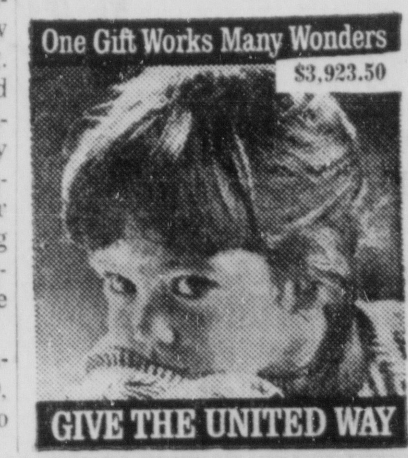

Members of Local 9 of the painters union, headquartered at Kansas City, picketed the headquarters of the Randall Sharpe Construction Co. of Oklahoma City, a sub-contractor on the missile project.

James B. Cox, secretary-treasurer of Painters District Council No. 3 at Kansas City, said Sharpe had failed to live up to an agreement between the council and contractors over the type of surfaces that could be spray-painted at the missile sites. He said the Sharpe concern had complied with the agreement until last Monday. He said about 70 painters were involved, all working in Lafayette, Johnson, Henry, Bates and Cass counties.

Heaviest Loss Of American Lives In Viet Nam Fight

SAIGON, Viet Nam. (AP)—The bodies of 12 Americans killed in crashes of two U. S. Marine helicopters Tuesday were recovered late today, military authorities reported. It was the heaviest loss of American lives in one operation since the United States started its military buildup in South Viet Nam in late 1961.

Aboard the two H34 helicopters were four Marine officers, five enlisted men, a Navy doctor and two Navy hospital corpsmen. The bodies were being taken to Da-Nang, a coastal city where the Marine helicopter squadron is based.

A military spokesman said the cause of the two crashes is under investigation by a team flown into the area today. One unconfirmed report said the helicopters collided in the air.

The two helicopters were on a search mission for a Vietnamese air force plane that crashed in a dive-bombing attack earlier Tuesday, 50 miles southwest of Da Nang.

The Vietnamese plane carried an American officer and a Vietnamese officer. They are listed officially as missing.

The area has been heavily defended by the Communist Viet Cong, who turn withering ground fire on planes there.

Mass Meeting On Sewer Issue Set for Monday

The first mass meeting designed as an educational session to acquaint Sedalians with the $3-million sewer bond election to be voted on Nov. 12 has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Pettis County courthouse.

"It is a matter of public knowledge and concern that if there is to be a continuation of the conditions that now prevail with respect to our grossly overloaded sewage disposal plants, then new industries will not locate in Sedalia, the construction of new homes will reach an all-time low, unemployment will increase and the economy of the entire community will be adversely affected," Mayor L. L. Studer said.

Scheduled to be present at the mass meeting are representatives of the Missouri State Water Pollution Board and Burns & McDonnell consulting engineers as well as the citizens sewer bond committee.

Mayor Studer in a memorandum to all city department heads Thursday morning asked city officials to contact all employees that will be off duty on Monday night and urge them to attend the meeting.

The mass meeting will be conducted by the publicity section of the citizens sewer bond committee.

None to Go to Cuba

Red Wheat Sale Okay

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has given the green light for the private sale of millions of bushels of American wheat to the Soviet Union and other Communist bloc countries.

He made it clear that the grain was for use only in the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe—not in Cuba.

His decision, which in so many words he said was just good business for the United States, drew both sparks and cheers.

The reaction ranged from Democratic Sen. Strom Thurmond's denunciation that it amounted to "arming our enemy," to Vermont Republican Sen. George Aiken's view that "the deal should prove beneficial to both the United States and the people of the purchasing nations."

In announcing his decision at his press conference Wednesday night after weighing both the political and economic problems involved, the President noted that more such transactions may be in the works.

The Soviet bloc countries, he said, "may also wish to purchase from us surplus feed grains and other agriculture commodities," and he added: "After consultation with the National Security Council, and informing the appropriate leaders of the Congress, I have concluded that such sales by private dealers for American dollars or gold, either cash on delivery or normal commercial terms, should not be prohibited by the government."

Kennedy did not specify how many bushels and how many dollars would be involved in wheat sale.

However, Hubert H. Humphrey, assistant Senate Democratic lead-

Hubcap Thieves Back In Action In Local Area

Auto hubcap thieves have moved back into action as reflected by reports turned into Sedalia police.

Harry Jorgensen, Boeing bachelor quarters, reported four hubcaps stolen between 8:45 and 11:45 p.m. Wednesday night while his 1961 auto was parked at Broadway Lanes. He set the value of the caps at $80.

Robert E. Hall, Lot 15, Mobile Manor, told police four teardrop hubcaps were removed from his 1957 car while it was parked during the same time period Wednesday night also at Broadway Lanes. His hubcaps were valued at $42.

Kenneth Berlin, 516 East Fourth, had four hubcaps removed from his 1962 auto sometime between 12:30 and 7 a.m. Thursday. He described the caps as full disc chrome type, valued at $15.

er, who was among congressional leaders briefed by Kennedy before his announcement, said the authorization cleared the way for wheat sales of $350 million to $400 million.

Humphrey said some 4 million tons of grain would go to the Soviet Union, and one million tons to Bulgaria, Hungary, Poland and Czechoslovakia. Some other legislators said the sales are expected to total 7 million tons.

Plagued by farm problems for years, the Soviet Union and some of its Eastern European satellites were forced to turn to the capitalist West for more grain this year when a drought cut deeply into harvests. The Soviet Union has already closed deals with Canada and Australia.

"Basically, the Soviet Union will be treated like any other cash customer in the world market who is willing and able to strike a bargain with private American merchants," said Kennedy.

The sales, however, will involve at least two U.S. government subsidies designed to keep higher priced U.S. wheat and shipping competitive in world trade. And Kennedy made clear that the wheat "will be carried in available American ships, supplemented by ships of other countries as required."

Kennedy said the sale would be made at regular world price, about 60 cents less than the domestic market price.

McGuire Found Not Guilty Of Fatal Shooting

Louis (Lick) McGuire, 48, a Columbia, Mo., Negro, was found not guilty Wednesday of charges of second degree murder in connection with the fatal shooting of a Sedalia Negro last Jan. 18. The trial by jury was held in Columbia.

Boone County Prosecuting Attorney Frank Conly told the Democrat-Capital Wednesday night that the jury returned its verdict at 5:20 p. m. after deliberating for about an hour and 15 minutes.

The Sedalian, Joe Nathan Bush, was reportedly shot in a Columbia Negro night club district. He suffered two bullet wounds in the abdomen.

At a coroner's inquest, shortly after the shooting, it was testified that Bush had threatened McGuire with a knife. The defense stated there was no controversy over the fact that Bush was shot by McGuire, but maintained that the shooting was in self-defense.

Federal Aid And Sewer Bonds

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the seventh in a series of articles concerning a major issue facing Sedalia voters—the Sewer Bond Issue. Various aspects and ramifications of the improvement program, what is to be done with passage of the issue, what happens if it fails, views of state and federal government and other information about the issue are covered in this series.)

By W. D. HILL
News Editor, The Democrat
The first chunk of an expected $764,000 in federal funds to aid Sedalia in improving its sewer disposal facilities would probably be available during the next fiscal year, starting July 1, if voters approve the $3-million bond issue Nov. 12.

Procedures to follow in obtaining federal aid have been outlined by C. A. Neumayer, Burns & McDonnell Engineering Co., and Paul Decker of the Missouri Water Pollution Board.

Decker points out that the city must first have a successful bond election; must have necessary land; easements; rights of way and the detailed plan and specifications before a request is forwarded to the Water Pollution Board. The plans, Decker says, are normally drawn up by the consulting engineers.

With filing of the application for federal aid, the board meets and reviews all applications on hand and awards priorities based on dates, plans and specifications as received.

"Based upon need and these items (the preceding), the board assigns a priority number and they certify it to the Public Health Service, if funds are available," Decker notes. "And when we do that, the Public Health Service makes an offer to the city. They call this a grant offer. They will state to the city that an offer in the amount of, in this case $764,000, is being made for the construction of certain sewerage improvements and the city has ten days in which to accept or reject this offer."

"The board," Decker says, "has adopted this procedure in determining priorities in order that all cities that have applied for this money can be treated equally and fairly and that we can use the maximum amount of money granted to us each year." He notes that Missouri gets one federal aid and work gets underway and is about 25 per cent complete, an inspection can be requested and the federal government will then release to the city federal funds for the percentage of work completed.

Additional inspections can be requested at 50 and 75 per cent completion for the release of additional aid funds. When work is 100 per cent complete an audit is conducted by the federal government, Decker says, and the balance of aid released.

This, city officials contend, should be of interest to Sedalians and points up the fact that the funds cannot, or will not, be diverted to any other project—as specifications ready for us much before the next fiscal year (July 1). It will take some time to prepare these detailed documents. This is one thing that the engineers don't like to be hurried on."

He estimates that at least six months will be required to prepare the documents.

Once the city is approved for federal aid and work gets underway and is about 25 per cent complete, an inspection can be requested and the federal government will then release to the city federal funds for the percentage of work completed.

Decker also points out that unless Missouri uses all the money it is granted during a fiscal year, "We lose it, and it goes to another state. So be assured that the total grant . . . is spent."

Decker contends that the acute crisis here would place Sedalia "on top of the list" for federal aid.

"It depends upon available money," he says. "Now the money that was made available by the present Congress . . . has been spent for this particular fiscal year. I doubt the engineers could have detailed plans and the federal aid would prevent any such moves should the thought be advanced by the city administration.

In further discussion of how the federal aid figure of $764,000 was arrived at, Neumayer points out: "The north plant is available for 30 per cent of its estimated construction; the west plant is available for 30 per cent of its construction cost, and the south plant is available for 30 per cent of construction cost. I didn't break these down by plants; but just based on the immediate and de-ferable items of construction, the total federal grant would run somewhere near $764,000."

Neumayer says this is only on the treatment plants alone. "I didn't attempt to make any break-out of 30 per cent items on pumping stations and force mains."

The engineer also notes that federal funds are available for work on the pumping stations and force mains. There exists the possibility of some additional federal aid, he says.

School Segregation Ruling

Ike Declares 1954 Decision Morally and Legally Right

EDITOR'S NOTE—What is former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's opinion of the Supreme Court's 1954 landmark decision ruling out school segregation? In this interview with Associated Press reporters, Eisenhower breaks his public silence of more than nine years and says what he thinks of that hotly controversial decision. He also discusses other matters.

By JACK BELL and MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
Associated Press Staff Writers
GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, speaking out publicly on the matter for the first time, says the Supreme Court's 1954 decision outlawing public school segregation "is morally and legally correct."

He expressed this conviction in an interview with Associated Press reporters at his office on the Gettysburg College campus.

As President, Eisenhower repeatedly declined to say whether he thought the court's controversial ruling was right or wrong, good or bad.

For example, at a news conference Sept. 5, 1956, Eisenhower said: "I think it makes no difference whether or not I endorse it (the court decision). The Constitution is as the Supreme Court interprets it, and I must conform to that and do my very best to see that it is carried out in this country."

During the interview here, Eisenhower said in response to a question: "I just say I believe the decision expressed the intentions of our Constitution and therefore is morally and legally correct."

On other matters the former president:

Called on President Kennedy to couple any tax cut with a pledge that—barring some "great emergency declared by Congress"—federal spending would be held to a specified level.

Replied "No, I do not," when asked whether he thinks Republicans in Congress should be taking the lead in seeking to cut foreign aid.

The following is the text of the interview:

Question: While you were president you repeatedly declined to say whether you thought the Supreme Court's decision on school segregation was right or wrong, a good decision or a bad one. Now that you are no longer in office, do you care to express an opinion on that?

Eisenhower: I think there is no question about the legality and the propriety of the decision of May '54. As I recall, it was a vote of 9 to 0. The Southerners on the court participated in that decision.

I just say I believe the decision expressed the intentions of our Constitution and therefore is morally and legally correct.

Q. As for how it should be done, are you talking about the court order calling for desegregation "with all deliberate speed?"

A. As a matter of fact, that plan looked to me like a very good one because they left it to the locality to make the plan. When you come to arguing about the legalities, where do the responsibilities of the court and of the Congress meet? I don't know. I don't even comment on that particular area. But I say the decision, itself, was undoubtedly correct.

Q. Your successor has been facing some of the same severe problems that you did in this civil rights field. Given the same set of general circumstances which you faced in having to call out troops in Little Rock, and those which faced President Kennedy in the use of troops in some of the Southern states, would you hope that any future Republican president would follow the same course in such circumstances?

A. It depends on the circumstances. As far as I know, no Republicans took off against the use of troops in Birmingham or Montgomery. If you remember some of the things that were said about me when I used them at Little Rock, you will quickly perceive that there was little bipartisanship operating at that moment.

I was determined that no governor, no matter what his power or political strength, was going to defy a properly issued order of a federal court, and that is all there was to it. It could have been on race relations or on a strike. It could have been on anything in the world. And I said, "We will take the necessary steps."

Since emotions were high down there, I took the National Guard away from the governor's control, and I could have used that. But this means that in these circumstances a National Guardsman would be enforcing the law against his brother. This was a bad thing. I wanted no disorder, and I knew that I could count on outside regular troops to be disciplined. They went, and there were no deaths; as a matter of fact, not even a single serious injury.

Q. Do you think that Congress ought to act on the tax bill this year, or should it wait until it sizes up President Kennedy's new budget next year?

A. Number of suggestions have been made to do something specific about the expression the President used—"to bring the expenditures under better discipline, or better control."

So any purpose of delay, I think, is to get expenditures under control.

Q. Do you believe Republicans in Congress ought to be in the forefront of those who are cutting foreign aid?

A. No, I don't. I happen to be one of those people that believe we ought to spend for the mutual security program what we need to spend.

The reform I would like to see is this: to get a long-term congressional authorization, certainly five years. Take a look at it every year so you know where you are going. . . . If we could have a permanent figure of somewhere near $4 billion, I believe we could do a job that could be very good for the world and, above all, for ourselves.

Q. You mean level off aid at that figure?

A. Level it off. This problem is going to be with us for a long time, make no mistake.

Q. In this general field of aid, the governments of the Dominican Republic and Honduras have been toppled. Do you approve withdrawal of recognition from the junta-installed governments?

A. It used to be that recognition had nothing to do with approval. But President Wilson was the first, I think, to equate recognition of a new government with tacit approval.

Now it is sort of mixed. Sometimes you say we acknowledge that this man is in control, therefore that is recognition. Other times we don't do that.

Q. You withdrew recognition from Castro, too.

A. Yes. Finally you get into such a position that if you continue recognition, you are just subject to insult, and the only thing you can do is not to recognize them.

I do not, under present conditions, favor withdrawal of recognition of these junta countries. But if any should develop into the Castro pattern, I not only would withdraw recognition, but I would try to take measures to stop that development.

Castro talked about free elections and all of that kind of thing when he was carrying on his revolution. It took a lot of time to realize what a ruthless dictator he had become.

Q. On the Cuban situation, do you have any ideas or recommendations on what our government might further do than it is doing now to counter the Castro regime?

A. No, I don't. I assume that the government is staying just as close with the Organization of American States as it possibly can. What I would really spend effort on right now would be to solidify a better union there and gain a better consensus.

In this way we could really bring them all together in some kind of protective screen to the point where the OAS would draw a line and say we would go so far and no further. I think it would be a very useful thing to do, and it may be going on. I don't know.

Job Hunter Goes All Out To Find Work

BOSTON (AP)—Life at Boston advertising agencies has settled down to a quiet routine now that Sheldon Silk is working.

Silk no longer is making the rounds of the agencies in search of employment.

Receptionists recall the well-dressed man of 30, carrying an attache case, who breezed in with the pronunciation: "My name is Sheldon Silk."

The sound of his name triggered a 60-pie orchestra into blaring forth a fanfare usually associated with kings and TV guest stars.

Silk stands 5-10, weighs 175 pounds and is unmarried. He's not likely to go unnoticed by pretty young receptionists, but he took no chances. He taped the orchestral fanfare on a portable tape recorder he carried in his attache case.

After the musical equivalent of a 21-gun salute, Sheldon would ask exactly 4 minutes and 17 seconds of the boss's time.

That's how long it took to play a sales pitch on a roll of tape which Silk had prepared for bosses and personnel directors in his effort to land an advertising job.

Silk, who lives with his widowed mother in suburban Randolph, Mass., says:

"Actually, I'm a very conservative man. My musical approach was a rebellion against the indifference of secretaries and receptionists and doors that are bolted against the job-seeker."

How did it all work out?

"The reaction was either cold shoulder or hot tongue," said Silk. "I got to see a lot of personnel directors but I sure frightened a lot of receptionists in the process."

Press Agent Fights The 'Bad Images'

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Image—that's my lecture for today," said Clyde Mack, the cynical flack.

The unemployed press agent was making another unwelcome visit to my desk. "Look, I've got a deadline," I insisted.

"Take Elizabeth Taylor," he said. I contemplated the notion. "Heaven knows her image hasn't been the greatest," Mack said, "what with playing musical husbands, and all. The smartest thing she could have done was that tour of London on television."

"How so," I foolishly asked. "Everybody loves a tour director. Now consider Miss Taylor's 'Which one?'"

"Eddie Fisher, of course. His image got a big boost when he sang the national anthem at the World Series last Sunday. You've got to like a guy who sings 'Oh say can you see' at the World Series—unless you're a Yankee fan, maybe."

"Okay, you've made your point."

"I'm not finished. Another case in point: Frank Sinatra."

Maxwell, 31-year-old men's hair stylist, are to be married Saturday at All Soul Episcopal Church in Miami Beach.

The 40-year-old actress is the widow of Dick Powell, actor and television producer.

MOSCOW (AP)—Yuri Gagarin, the first Soviet cosmonaut, left Moscow aboard a special flight for Cuba, where he'll join woman cosmonaut Valentina Tereshkova.

Moscow reported the two then will go to Mexico to attend the 56th annual General Conference of the International Aeronautical Federation, opening Oct. 12.

What about Frank Sinatra?" "He got in trouble because he allegedly put up Sam Giancana, the Chicago mobster, at his Lake Tahoe inn. So a few days later Sinatra is announced as executive assistant to Jack Warner at Warner Brothers. That will help improve his image."

"How do you figure?" "An actor as Warner's assistant? He's bound to get the sympathy vote."

"They gotta learn about image-making in television, though."

Mack continued. "Like the Judy Garland Show. They keep letting the comic knock her for being late, a big spender and a 'little old lady.' Bad image."

"How so? It shows she can laugh at herself."

"You're wrong, as usual. Garland is a legend. You can't destroy a legend; people resent it. And if you call her a 'little old lady,' what does that make the millions of people who grew up with her? Geriatric cases."

Ann Landers

Answers
Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a boy, 16, who is going with a great girl. There is only one thing wrong with Jill and I would like your advice on what to do about it. In all the time we've been going together she has never once offered to pay my way to anything. I'd even settle for a Dutch treat once in a while.

I don't want to sound cheap, but when you go out these days it can get pretty expensive. Last week when we were leaving Jill's house her mother said, half joking, "Here's $5—why don't you treat Wally for a change?" Jill looked shocked and answered, "ME pay a boy's way? I wouldn't think of it!"

What I want to know is why wouldn't she think of it? What's wrong with helping out once in a while?

Please print this letter for me and for thousands of other guys who don't have money bushes growing in the front yard.—THIN WALLETT WALLY.

Dear Thin Wally: To you, and to those thousands of other guys who are suffering from shell-out falter, I would like to say this: In our society it is customary for the male to pay for himself and his lady.

It is perfectly acceptable for the girl to crash through with tickets now and then, particularly if the boy has taken her out a lot. But no self-respectable male would want to be handed a $5 bill by his girl, nor would he want her to dig into her purse at the box office window.

Dear Ann Landers: Our lovely daughter was married to a no-good bum for almost two years. She tried every which way to get him straightened around but it was useless. Finally our own minister advised her to get a divorce. So she did.

After she filed suit for a divorce she discovered she was pregnant. The baby is due any time now. Of course her ex-husband is the father of the child but she doesn't know how to word the baby announcements. Should she say "Mr. and Mrs. _____ announce the birth of _____" or should it just be "Mrs. _____ announces _____" since she is no longer married to him?

Please set us straight. She is deeply concerned.—NEEDING INFORMATION.

Dear Needing: Under the circumstances your daughter should skip the announcements. Friends and family will not need to be informed by mail.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are in our middle 60's. We've both worked hard all our lives and now that we are at the stage where we could take things easier our kids won't let us.

Every time we turn around somebody needs a loan. Last week our oldest son and his wife came over—depressed. They are "dead tired and need a vacation," but can't afford it. Will we loan them $400 so they can go to Puerto Rico for two weeks?

They owe bills all over town yet they talk about taking a vacation on borrowed money. They still owe us $300 which they borrowed to get their furniture out of storage. My husband says we should let them have the money or they will think we are stingy and mean. If they needed it for an emergency I would say "yes," but I don't feel that we should lend them money for a vacation. What do you say?—STINGY AND MEAN???

Dear Mother: I say let them repay the $300 they owe you and when they can look the rest of their creditors in the eye they should save toward that vacation in Puerto Rico. It's a heavenly spot—and they ought to go—but not on your money.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

DEFENSE: A $47.2-billion military appropriation bill that awaits President Kennedy's signature includes $73.1 million for a mobile system of missile defense that an enemy would find hard to hit.

The House passed the bill Tuesday with only three dissenting votes and then the Senate shouted it through by voice vote.

The bill's total of $47,220,010,000 represented a compromise between differing House and Senate versions and amounted to $1,794,227,000 less than the President had asked for the Defense Department.

The $73.1 million is for development of a medium-range ballistic missile that could be launched from moving railroad cars, trucks or ships, thus making it more difficult for an enemy to pinpoint and destroy them.

CASSINI: Cholly Knickerbocker, the society columnist whose real name is Igor Cassini, awaits sentence after pleading no contest to a charge of accepting $150,000 from the Dominican Republic without registering as an agent for a foreign power.

Cassini changed his plea from innocent to no contest in federal court Tuesday, after Judge Matthew F. McGuire asked if he understood that a no-contest plea was virtually the same as admitting guilt.

Attorneys for Cassini and his co-defendant, New York attorney R. Paul Englander, said they did. Englander, 76, also pleaded no contest.

Cassini is charged with four counts of failing to register, as a publicity agent for the late Dominican dictator Rafael Trujillo, and Englander is charged on one count of conspiracy with Cassini. No date was set for sentencing.

VON BRAUN: Missile expert Wernher Von Braun says a $250-million cut in the nation's space budget this year could mean defeat for the announced U.S. intention of putting a man on the moon before the 1970s.

The German-born scientist, head of the Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala., expressed his views in a letter to a member of the House Appropriations Committee which approved a $5.1-billion budget for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in 1964.

The House earlier had authorized a maximum of $5,350,000,000. The money must be provided in a separate appropriations measure which comes up in the House Thursday.

Background On Cuba To Sorosis Club

A speaker whose experiences leave Americans with sober thoughts of what can happen to a country, addressed Sorosis Monday afternoon, Oct. 7, at Heard Memorial Club House. He was Dr. Arturo Sanchez, exiled Cuban district attorney, who, with his family left his country and all his possessions to come to Kansas City in an effort to escape the Castro rule.

Speaking on the subject: "Castro's Cuba," Dr. Sanchez gave the background of Fidel Castro, a lawyer, who had come in to power. When he was a university student, Dr. Sanchez said, he had seen Castro.

Nobody realized that he was a Communist and he made many promises and painted wonderful pictures of projects he intended to carry out, the speaker said. But when he came into power, the government began taking over property illegally. He distributed land to the peasants and 70 per cent of Cuban land went under government control.

After four years of reform, however, the peasants were not interested in crops because the government got the profit, and Cuba had the lowest crops in 20 years. At one time Cuba had six million head of cattle—today Cuba cannot get any kind of meat, he said.

The first things the government took over, Dr. Sanchez told the group, were some of the newspapers, radio and television stations. The government got control of finance in 1960. The sugar industry was supposed to be in the hands of the people but the militia got control and the government took over, as well as other industry. Then they took over banks and there was nothing people could do if there was anything wrong with their bank accounts.

Castro at first had been the hero of the country. By 1960 all of Cuba's newspapers were taken over by the country and freedom of the press was dead, he said. Then they were given ration books.

At one time Cuba had a ten year grade school, five year high school and five year university but later they graduated as engineers in three years and as doctors in 2½ years, he said.

The year 1961, he continued, was designated by the government as the year of education and all Cubans had to learn to read and write. There were 600,000 uneducated, he said, and teachers were to teach what the government wanted, so 80 per cent of the university professors left the country, and many of the Cuban children were sent to Florida.

People could leave their country as he did, Dr. Sanchez said, but it meant giving up all that they possessed. It meant leaving their home and all that was in it, all of their clothes except three garments and three changes of under garments. It meant leaving all of their money. When they went out of the country that was the end. But the government did not try to keep them because they had many people who would take the houses.

Mrs. Sanchez said that her mother lived near and wrote it was really hard to see them taking her daughter's things that she had loved so, out of her home, after they left.

When Dr. Sanchez and his family came to Kansas City, he could not practice law because he is not an American citizen, so he

Candy Day Slated By Lions Club

Lions Candy Day will be held on Friday and Saturday in Sedalia when members of the Lions Club will take to selling candies to raise funds for the blind activity of both the local and state Lions organization. This is "Visually Handicapped Week" and proclaimed by Governor John M. Dalton in recognition of the work for the blind by the Missouri Lions.

Neil Chapman announced Sheriff Emmett Fairfax has accepted the chairman of the Candy Day program, and will assign members their duties Friday when the Lions will sell their candies in the downtown area in the afternoon and evening and also at the Smith-Cotton Tigers and Columbia Kewpies football game.

They hope to obtain their share of the $44,000 budget set for the Eye Tissue Bank at the University of Missouri Medical Center, as well as increase their budget locally to assist the visually handicapped in Sedalia.

At the regular meeting Wednesday, Chester Vermaas, conservation agent in charge of the local wildlife area, was the speaker. Vermaas had a colored-sound motion picture, "The Mallard Duck," showing the breeding of ducks in the far north and their flights to the south.

He told the Lions duck season will open Oct. 25 and continue through Nov. 28, and of the various possessions and daily take. He also explained the quail season has been extended 15 days, opening on Nov. 10 and continuing through Jan. 15. The daily take has been raised to 10 and possession to 15 quail.

He explained both the duck and quail hunting this year has improved considerably, but warned hunters canvass back and red heads are still closed.

Procedure

(Continued from Page 1) right to take it up with the Board and he had no objection. "Neither did he ask me to bring it up," Mrs. Phillips said, "it was my own idea after talking with another mother from the school. The phone is out in the hall, at the counter where, when anyone talks over it, those nearby can hear the conversation. The mother told me she was at the desk the other day working on some Cub Scout work, when Mr. Thomas had a call — which she said should have been private, regarding a child. We talked about it and I suggested we do something about it."

Mrs. Phillips then remarked, "I only requested the Board to consider the extension, and at no time indicated Mr. Thomas had wanted us to appear before the Board. Mr. Phillips and I are public minded, have two children in Heber Hunt and two in Smith-Cotton, and we were more curious over how the Board functioned, and being present I decided to make the request myself," she concluded her conversation with a Democrat-Capital reporter.

The Board, after her discussion before the meeting, realized the importance of the recommendation, and voted to have the extension installed.

President Khede, talking to a Democrat-Capital reporter said, "there was no improper approach on the recommendation, as has been indicated. That was the opinion of one individual at the time, not the Board. Any citizen has a right to suggest or recommend to any governmental board, as I see it, and this recommendation under the circumstances was justifiable.

"As a matter of fact," President Khede said, "we welcome visitors to our meetings, and also welcome their suggestions and recommendations. As I recall, Mrs. Phillips had suggested consideration of the request. Parents alike should take more interest in our School Board and school system operation, and we would like to see more people interested."

Accidents

There were no injuries reported in a two-car collision about two miles east of Sedalia on Highway 50 at 8:10 a.m. Thursday.

Involved, according to Highway Patrol Trooper Pete Stohr who investigated, were a 1959 Chevrolet, driven by Edgar Alan Phillips, 28, Independence, and a 1959 DeSoto, driven by Carolyn Marie Overstreet, 40, Route 2.

Stohr said Phillips was west-bound and had pulled off the road to close the hood on his auto. As he pulled back on to the pavement he met the Overstreet auto which was eastbound and passing a stationwagon. Damage was estimated at $100 to both of the cars.

Myrtle Shafer, Route 1, was treated at Bothwell Hospital Thursday morning for lacerations to the left neck. She was treated by Dr. A. J. Campbell, then released.

Roland Kelley, 11, 1803 South Missouri, was treated at Bothwell Hospital for injuries to the left side of the head he received when he fell going home from school Wednesday afternoon. He was treated by Dr. A. J. Campbell, then released.

Freddie Leon Anderson, 28, Lakeview Heights, Mo., received a severe laceration of the lower right leg when he slipped and fell while descending from a caterpillar about 2:30 p.m. Wednesday south of Sedalia.

According to John Cover, of the Cover Construction Co., for whom Anderson was working, the two men were loading dirt on a truck. Anderson was getting off the large "cat" when he apparently lost his footing and fell. His leg struck a part of the machine, resulting in the laceration.

Anderson was brought to Bothwell Hospital in the Gillespie ambulance, was treated there and later taken to the office of Dr. Carl Siegel for further treatment.

Two cars were involved in an accident about 7 p.m. Wednesday at Broadway and Grand.

Involved were a 1963 Rambler, driven east on Broadway by Deborah Crowder, 16, 710 East 14th; and a 1959 Chevrolet, driven west on Broadway by Barbara Sharp, 20, Knob Noster.

The front of the Rambler and the right side of the Chevrolet were damaged.

Miss Sharp was given a police summons for careless and imprudent driving by failure to yield the right of way and is to appear in police court, Oct. 11.

Police Reports

Two teenage Sedalia boys were picked up at 10:47 p.m. Wednesday night at 18th and Limit by Sedalia police in connection with the theft of some hubcaps.

An off-duty police officer, J. V. Phelps, saw the boys putting an object in their car at Hillcrest Lanes on South Highway 65, police said, and telephoned the information to police headquarters.

Deputy Sheriff Jack Couts was also notified and helped interrogate the two youths. Couts said one of the youths admitted taking four hubcaps, but said his companion was not implicated.

The youths were released to the custody of their parents and are to be taken before Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz Friday morning.

The four hubcaps and a transistor radio were recovered from the car the two boys were in. No report of a missing radio had been turned in, however.

One of the boys was listed as 18 years of age, the other as 17.

Authorities have not linked the two with several other hubcap thefts which were reported to police Thursday morning.

A police report Wednesday night which started out as a beating, robbery and car theft incident, later proved to be a minor auto accident.

Police said they found Ellis D. Osbourn, 32, 1718 West 18th, lying beside a fence at the north side of the Corner Drive-Inn, 16th and Grand, at 11:30 p.m. Wednesday and he reported he had been struck in the head, robbed of $20 and his 1956 Plymouth stationwagon stolen.

Investigation by police, however, revealed Osbourn had been involved in an auto accident and had reported the robbery as an apparent cover-up.

Police said Osbourn's stationwagon struck the rear of a 1953 Ford driven by Susan G. Glenn, 16, 2021 South Grand, at 20th and Kentucky at 9:15 p.m.

Osbourn was given a police summons for careless and imprudent driving in connection with the accident.

At 11:50 a.m. Thursday police received a report that a .22 caliber pistol and three boxes of shells had been stolen from a M-K-T railroad caboose stopped a short distance from East Boonville Street.

Police recovered the weapon and three teenage boys were brought to police headquarters at 1 p.m. for further questioning.

Police said later investigation showed that the gun was taken outside the city limits. The three youths, two juveniles and one 17-years-old, were to be turned over to Juvenile Officer Cecil Glenn and the Pettis County Sheriff's Department.

Fires In City

A grass fire in the 2500 block of South Ohio burned off a large vacant lot, but firemen were able to quell the blaze before any damage was listed.

Firemen answered the alarm at 12:10 p.m. Thursday and used two booster lines to halt the fire.

A second grass fire alarm was responded to at 1:15 p.m. Thursday by firemen at East Third and the railroad tracks. No damage was listed.

Other Fires

A grass fire near Oak Grove School west of Sedalia burned off considerable acreage Thursday morning. Pettis County firemen answered the alarm and were at the scene until about 1:40 p.m.

Another report of a fire in a tree struck by lightning Wednesday at the L. P. Lamy home, on north State Fair Blvd., was turned in about 1:30 p.m. Thursday. Firemen doused fire in the tree twice Wednesday.

The Pettis County Fire Department was kept busy Wednesday extinguishing grass fires. While answering a call at the L. P. Lamy residence, they received a radio call that a grass fire was in progress at the Sedalia Mobile Homes on West Main at Highway 50. No damage resulted. Two booster lines were used.

While there, a passerby reported to them that there was a grass fire on the M. M. Turner farm, west of Highway 50 on Main Street Road. The fire was under control upon their arrival.

At 1:55 p.m. a call came from West Highway 50 near the drive-in where a 1960 Chevrolet station wagon, owned by D. H. Tinchler, 1819 South Stewart was on fire. Firemen reported that Tinchler did not realize that his car was ablaze and was alerted by a motorist behind him. Extensive damage resulted to the car.

The most damaging fire was at 3 p.m. on the L. M. Littlefield and Guy Mahin farms on Route 2, LaMonte. Pettis County firemen, along with the LaMonte Fire Department extinguished the grass and timber fire which was thought to have been caused by burning trash.

About 25 acres on the Mahin farm and 20 acres on the Littlefield farm were burned off. Damage was estimated at $200 on the Mahin farm.

Circuit Court

Kay Hendrix, 20, and her husband, Gerald, of Saline County, filed a damage petition in Circuit Court Thursday morning seeking a judgment against three defendants as the result of a car-truck accident in Pettis County on June 12.

Named as defendants in the suit are Lana Jean Booth, Sweet Springs; Robert Eugene Brown, LaMonte; and the Boeing Company.

Mrs. Hendrix was a passenger in a car driven by Lana Jean Booth which was involved in a collision with a truck driven by Robert Eugene Brown and owned by the Boeing Company, 3 of a mile north of Route 00 on a gravel road in Pettis County.

Mrs. Hendrix asks a $50,000 judgment on count one of the petition and her husband seeks $16,200 on the second count. Cohn and Lentz, Waynesville, are attorneys for the plaintiffs.

Wanda Morgan filed a petition in Circuit Court Thursday seeking a divorce from Alonzo Morgan. William F. Brown is her attorney.

Lawrence W. Duly filed a petition in Circuit Court Thursday seeking a divorce from Mary Lou Duly. William F. Brown is his attorney.

Two traffic cases brought from Magistrate Court to Circuit Court were taken under advisement Wednesday afternoon by Circuit Judge Frank Hayes after defense attorneys had questioned the Missouri Uniform Traffic Code ticket filed as information in the cases.

The cases are: Andrew Harry Paulin, Whiteman AFB, who is charged with speeding. He was arrested March 30, 1963 by Highway Patrol Trooper Pete Stohr and the case was switched to Circuit Court from Magistrate Court on a request for change of venue. Paulin is represented by O. E. Brown.

Raising Flag Of Warning For Latins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has raised a warning flag for any more Latin American military leaders contemplating a grab for power.

It made an example Friday of the Dominican Republic and Honduras, whose governments were toppled in quick succession.

Going further than merely suspending aid and diplomatic relations, the United States ordered withdrawal of the U.S. economic and military aid missions from the two countries—making it that much more difficult for assistance to be resumed.

"We view the recent military coups in the Dominican Republic and Honduras with the utmost gravity," Secretary of State Dean Rusk said in a statement announcing the action.

Earlier in the day the State Department suspended diplomatic relations and deliveries of military and economic aid to Honduras.

The rapid series of actions came within a day after the Honduran Army overthrew the government of President Ramon Villeda Morales and forced him into exile in Costa Rica.

The Honduras coup came on the heels of a military clique's ousting Juan Bosch from the presidency of the Dominican Republic late last month.

The State Department's announcements showed that administration officials have become alarmed that military leaders, encouraged by the coups in Honduras and the Dominican Republic, might try to take over other Latin American governments.

In his statement Rusk said, "The establishment of and maintenance of representative and constitutional government is an essential element in the Alliance for Progress."

"Stable and effective government responsive to the popular will is a critical factor in the attainment of social and economic progress."

"Under existing conditions in the Dominican Republic and Honduras there is no opportunity for effective collaboration by the United States under the Alliance for Progress or for normalization of diplomatic relations."

"Accordingly, we have stopped all military and economic aid to these countries and have commenced orderly reassignment of the personnel involved."

However, high officials at the State Department cautioned against any blanket condemnation of military takeovers in Latin America.

They stressed that military juntas, undesirable as they are, could still represent progress if they ousted an inefficient regime and did not try to hold power too long.

It was pointed out that although the United States maintains that military seizures are no substitute for constitutional procedures, the hard fact of life is that Washington has to work with forces that are in power.

One object of the Alliance for Progress is to promote legitimacy and stability in the Western Hemisphere and to help develop respect for democracy.

This is a slow process, informants conceded, because of the long tradition of coups in Latin America.

The United States is said to have worked frantically behind the scenes to head off the Honduran coup.

Ambassador Charles R. Burrows, the American envoy to Tegucigalpa is reported to have talked repeatedly before the coup with Col. Osvaldo Lopez Arellano, who has proclaimed himself provisional president of Honduras, warning him that the United States opposes the overthrow of democratically elected governments.

Burrows also received a last minute appeal for help from ousted President Villeda Morales. The appeal was sped to Washington, officials said, but it was too late to do anything short of sending troops, which the United States was not inclined to do.

The overthrow in Honduras was the fourth military coup in the Western Hemisphere since spring. The series started in Guatemala in March, then Ecuador in July and the Dominican Republic in September.

School Board Takes Stand On Religion

WICHITA (AP)—"There shall be neither advancement nor inhibition of religion in the public schools."

This is a key sentence in a statement of policy adopted by the Wichita Board of Education at a public meeting after three months of study and debate.

"The public schools have a responsibility to teach about religion," it said, "but not as an effort to win commitment, evangelize the pupil, or insist on any of the sanctions of religious belief."

The Wichita Board of Education apparently is one of the few in the county to adopt a formal policy in light of the recent decision by the United States Supreme Court holding that prescribed prayers and scripture reading in the public schools are unconstitutional.

Lawrence Shepoiser, superintendent of schools, called it a neutral policy. The statement itself says the board supports "the doctrine of separation of church and state as interpreted by the Supreme Court of the United States."

"Neutrality," Shepoiser told the public meeting, "is the wall of separation between church and state. It does not relieve the school of a responsibility of teaching ethics and moral values."

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT—Sedalia, Mo., Thurs., Oct. 10, '63

He said this must be done without teaching doctrine.

Members of the board noted they took into consideration several other Supreme Court decisions in addition to the Maryland case about prescribed prayers and scripture readings.

With two of its 12 members absent, it rejected a final paragraph which said it is not the board's intent to set requirements on the religious content of programs of voluntary groups authorized to meet on school property. They agreed questions arising in this field can be dealt with as they come up.

Optimist Meeting

Sedalians Find County Jail Dark, Dreary, Deteriorated

"Doesn't the sunshine look good," remarked one of the men as the members of the Optimist Club completed a tour of the Pettis County jail and walked out the front door into the fresh air Tuesday, Oct. 8.

There was no sunshine in the jail, no lightness or brightness, and even the few electric lights add little even in the day time.

"Can't you have more lights than this?" someone asked Jack Coutts, deputy sheriff.

"That is all it is wired for," he replied.

Even around at the back outside it seemed dark and dreary. There were new patches of new brick in with the soft brick and mortar, patches where prisoners had escaped, three times in the past few months. One of the men lifted out a brick and replaced it. This could be done as easily on the inside for the bricks crumble at a touch, the men found.

On the south side of the building above what probably would be called a porch, a tin roof held up by wooden posts, the top of the building looked as if it might tumble at any time.

Often in the quiet of the evening or night, said Sheriff Emmett Fairfax, who was conducting the tour, bricks or parts of bricks can be heard as they hit the tin roof.

The men looked and someone commented that an entire wall could well collapse anytime and cause a tragedy.

"It was condemned 40 years ago," said Sheriff Fairfax. "That was in the 40 years ago column in the newspaper not long ago."

"It was condemned first," one of the Optimists told him, "in 1896."

At the back, on the south side, near the tin roofed porch is the women's and juvenile quarters. There was one woman in there for giving a bad check, but she had been taken to another part of the building.

There were three cells with cots, a small lavatory in the corner, and a cot in a small room. They could take care of four women at a time, by putting one outside the cells. The cells are open so they could walk around—but not very much, in the area outside, for there isn't much area to walk in.

"It looks good compared to the way it looked before," said Coutts.

The Optimists, who usually take an optimistic view of things, couldn't see how it could look much worse. The papered walls were faded and there was a leak in the ceiling in the area where the prisoners were taken first and information taken on them and where the chart is to get their heights.

The jail part had the block cells and all prisoners for felony are kept in the block cells because if they were not kept in the steel part they would go through the walls. A stairway leads up to the top of the cellblock and here the prisoners who are just serving time for something can stay. There would be no room for them to walk around any place else in the jail except on top of the cell block.

There were 13 prisoners in the jail that day. There have been 2,789 since January. Sometimes there are 20, sometimes only five or six. They seem to be increasing, said Fairfax. Last year there were 2,600.

If there are women and juveniles at the same time one or the other must be taken to Marshall to the Saline County jail and that costs $5 a day besides the transportation. It would cost $1.25 a day here. But even if the juvenile is a girl they cannot stay there with a woman prisoner.

Virgil Morris is the jailer and Mrs. Morris does the cooking for the prisoners. Sheriff Fairfax addressed the Optimist Club at the meeting at Hotel Bothwell prior to the tour which the program chairman, Al Allgaier had arranged for.

The meeting was presided over by Ed Mitchell with invocation by Joe Forsee. Music was by Miss Lillian Fox.

Guests introduced were: C. H. Tinsman, Kansas City, guest of Ed Mitchell; Jim Grieshaber, guest of R. L. Settles, and Duane Rosebaugh, guest of Al Allgaier.

Danger Past For Catholic Conservatives

By JOHN GALE
Associated Press Staff Writer
VATICAN CITY (AP)—The danger has passed of Roman Catholic conservatives reversing Pope John's drive for unity with other Christian faiths, says an American Protestant observer at the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

"Pope Paul VI," said the Rev. Dr. Douglas Horton, "is trying to break down all the barriers between himself and the rest of the Christian world without, of course, impairing what he believes to be the standards of the Catholic church."

Dr. Horton, a former dean of the Harvard divinity school, is an observer for four million members of churches affiliated to the International Congregationalist Council. He is one of 63 non-Catholic observers.

Most non-Catholic observers at the Council appear to share Dr. Horton's view.

They have been hospitably welcomed to Rome. At the Council sessions in St. Peter's basilica they occupy privileged seats close to the presiding prelate and the papal throne. Some observers say they have been told they need not pick up the hotel bills for their two-month stay.

Said the 73-year-old Dr. Horton: "The dialogue is established and it's not going to be interrupted. In the United States, Protest-

Hits, Misses Forecast For New Projects

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Thirty one of the television season's 32 new programs have been launched.

One, a quiz show called "100 Grand," sank almost immediately. A number of others are frail vehicles indeed and their chances for survival appear dubious.

This is the critical period when viewers make dailing decisions which direct their television interests for the entire season.

Based on one show—or at the most, two—my scorecard of hits, misses and "maybes" is almost evenly split, with 17 hits and maybes and 14 misses.

Probable hits are CBS' Danny Kaye and Judy Garland variety hours and its "Petticoat Junction" situation comedy series. ABC's "Arrest and Trial," "The Fugitive" and "Greatest Show on Earth" are fast-paced adventure tales and "The Farmer's Daughter" an amusing comedy. NBC's "Mr. Novak" looks pretty good after two programs, and its "Hollywood and the Stars" ought to interest anyone who likes movies.

"Maybes" include four anthology series, on the theory that each unrelated program will be as good—or as bad—as its writers. They are NBC's "Richard Boone Show," "Bob Hope Theatre" and "Espionage," and CBS' "Great Adventure." ABC's "Burke's Law" may prove amusing. CBS' "My Favorite Martian" was on my hit list until I saw the second episode, which moved it to the maybes. CBS' Phil Silvers is a funny man and may triumph over the scripts.

The misses include three new message shows—CBS' "East Side, West Side," and ABC's "Channing" and "Breaking Point." All seem pretentious and really intent on developing points of view.

NBC's "Grindl" has Imogene Coca, but that's about all, and NBC's "Bill Dana Show" promises to develop into a one-joke comedy series. CBS' "Glynis" is a boring, imitative farce. NBC's "Harry's Girls" needs some new writers—and some girls who can act. Neither ABC's Jerry Lewis nor Jimmy Dean see me have "ound ways to fill their time spots—but at least Dean isn't offensive.

NBC's "Temple Houston" is a Grade C Western and "The Lieutenant" is military cake with a sugary icing. "The Outer Limits" on ABC is for kids who like horror movies, and the "Travels of Jaimie McPheeters" for those too young to enjoy "Wagon Train."

So, what kind of a season will it be? A season very much like the one before it, but perhaps a little more exciting, if only because of the addition of the talented Kaye and Garland.

NBC's "Telephone Hour," on a new day but old time spot (10-11 p.m. EDT) has its season premiere tonight, starring dancer Rudolf Nureyev and singers Richard Tucker and Anna Moffo.

tants and Catholics are beginning to talk to each other at all levels."

People In The News

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK (AP)—Now comes Michael J. Quill with a proposition for the New York Transit Authority, which says it can't pay its bills on an income of $400 million a year.

Eliminate all subway and bus fares, says Mike, and at the same time give the 38,000 members of his Transport Workers Union a $165 million-a-year wage boost — and a 4-day, 32-hour week.

In a letter to the Transit Authority, Quill suggested his "modest" demands could be met by a "small increase" in real estate taxes, plus some federal money and some more from the state.

There was no comment from the Transit Authority — at least not yet.

SANTO MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Singer Judy Garland claims her estranged husband, Sid Luft, made a scene in a Beverly Hills restaurant and she wants him held in contempt of court.

Luft is under court order forbidding him from annoying Miss Garland.

Miss Garland said she was dining with a friend when Luft began a "vulgar" and threatening conversation with the gentleman at the table. Furthermore, she said, he followed her from the restaurant and grabbed her wrist so hard he scratched it.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dorothy Lamour went before the Baltimore City Council for a job interview.

She told the councilmen she could do a good job as a member of the Baltimore Civic Center Commission "even though I have two counts against me: I'm a woman and the majority think people in show business are flighty."

"Mr. chairman," interrupted councilman Joseph Curran, "I don't think Miss Lamour's sex is an infirmity."

The other councilmen agreed, and promptly confirmed the appointment of the former actress, now Mrs. William R. Howard III, to the commission.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Comedian Bob Hope has notified the Episcopal Churchwomen of Tennessee that he isn't dead but he appreciated their prayers nonetheless.

Prayers were offered after a Nashville member reported hearing a broadcast last June that Hope had died. The broadcast reported the death of Skinny Ennis, a friend of Hope.

Mrs. J.M. Patten Jr. of Chattanooga, state president of the church organization wrote Hope about the mix-up. The comedian sent back an autographed picture. Across it was scrawled: "Thanks for the memory."

Miss Elna Deane McNeal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. McNeal, Kansas City, native Sedalia, was married to Mr. Larry Dean Thornton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Deeds, Lola, Kan., at Southeast Baptist Church, Kansas City, at seven o'clock Saturday evening, Sept. 14. The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will A. Bond, Route 4, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred McNeal, Syracuse.

Miss Olive Baxter, pianist, played traditional wedding music and accompanied Mr. Dwight Jones, who sang "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The Rev. Jack Hymer read the double ring ceremony before an altar set with candelabra, ferns, and baskets of gladioli and chrysanthemums.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of beau de soie satin, featuring a Chantilly lace bodice, accented with pearls and sequins. The fitted bodice was styled with a scalloped Sabrina neckline with long tapered sleeves. Her veil of illusion was held by a matching crown of sequins and pearls. She carried a Bible with a white orchid, stephanotis and pink rosebuds.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Barbara Kunkelman, sister of the bridegroom. She wore a street length dress of lime green brocade with matching headdress. Her bouquet was of pink carnations. Bridesmaid was Miss Anita Hanks. Her dress and accessories were like those of the matron of honor.

Candlelighters were Mr. Rich-

Mr. Larry Kunkelman was best man. Groomsman was Mr. Randy Redinger, who also served as usher, along with Mr. James Faulwell, cousin of the bride.

Miss Jennifer Jones was flower girl. Her dress matched those of the other attendants. She carried a basket of pink rose petals.

Rings were carried to the altar on a white satin pillow by Mr. Hal Ray McNeal, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, the mother of the bride selected a pink dress with black accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a brown jersey sheath with brown accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations.

Miss Janice Bonine, cousin of the bride, presided at the guest book and gift table. A reception was held in the church dining room following the wedding. Approximately 150 relatives and friends attended. At the table were aunts of the bride, Mrs. B. R. Faulwell, Mrs. Charles McNeal and Miss Dean Wilson, Kansas City; Mrs. Chester McNeal, Syracuse; Mrs. Earl Bonine and Mrs. Ken McNeal, St. Louis.

The bride's table, covered with a lace cloth over pink, was centered with a four tiered wedding cake which held a miniature bridal couple. Pink tapers in china candleholders were placed on the table. The punch bowl was encircled with pink rosebuds.

BPWC Heads Programs For Better Area

Entry blanks for the Community Betterment program were signed Wednesday morning by Miss Sue Heckart, chairman of the civic participation committee of the Sedalia Business and Professional Women's Club.

The BPWC volunteered to sponsor the program here and Miss Heckart has set Wednesday, Oct. 23, at 7:30 p.m. for the meeting of the steering committee, the members of which she will appoint, at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Present at the signing of the blanks for participation in the Missouri Community Betterment program, for the year Oct. 1, 1963 to Sept. 30, 1964, were Captain Marjorie Weber, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, Mrs. Marjorie Garanson, civic participation chairman of the Missouri Federation of Business and Professional Women Clubs and who has been appointed to serve on the Missouri Community Betterment program by the Missouri Division of Commerce and Industry on the family living and beautification committees, and Mrs. Vivian Warren, and S. E. Boyle of the Chamber of Commerce.

The first meeting of Sedalia citizens for the purpose of discussing such a program was called by the Chamber of Commerce. When it was pointed out that it was necessary to have an organization to spearhead the program the BPWC volunteered to do so.

A chairman and sub-committee chairman of the steering committee will be elected, and arrange for a mass meeting.

Ally Dickering With Ally In Battle for Asian Prize

EDITORS NOTE—Reporter William L. Ryan has covered news all over the world, from Moscow to Chile to Singapore. He is a specialist in Communist affairs and the way nations react to the Communist effort to gain converts. Now he is back in Asia, talking to people across the political spectrum from extreme right to extreme left, and from the top to the bottom of the ladder. This is the first of several dispatches.

BANGKOK, Thailand — Asia is severely shaken today by its own conflicts and by radical changes in the cold war picture. These changes are a potent yeast in the ferment which is engulfing first to the United States, now are looking to Moscow. There is a good chance that Russian ground-to-air missiles eventually will be protecting Indian cities against the Red Chinese.

But U.S. response to Indian appeals already had produced violent reaction in Pakistan. That nation is a member of the Central Treaty Organization — CENTO — with Britain, Turkey and Iran, and of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization — SEATO — with Thailand, the Philippines, Australia, New Zealand, Britain, France and the United States.

CENTO may be on its way to becoming little more than a paper arrangement because of Pakistan's bitterness over the U.S.-British aid to India. Pakistan's attitude on SEATO may not be too

$12-Million In Road Bids Set Oct. 31

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—The state Highway Commission set Oct. 31 for submission of bids on an estimated $12 million in road construction.

The bid call includes an estimated $2.75 million on the Interstate system, $7.25 million on the primary and urban systems and the rest on farm to market routes.

Livingston — 1 mile grading, bridging and both single and dual lane concrete paving on U.S. 65 from U.S. 36 at Chillicothe, south. Includes bridges over proposed U.S. 36 and at Coon Creek.

Macon — Two culvert installations on U.S. 36, a single box culvert at the Chariton River overflow west of Macon and a double box culvert at Winn Creek east of Macon, plus approaches.

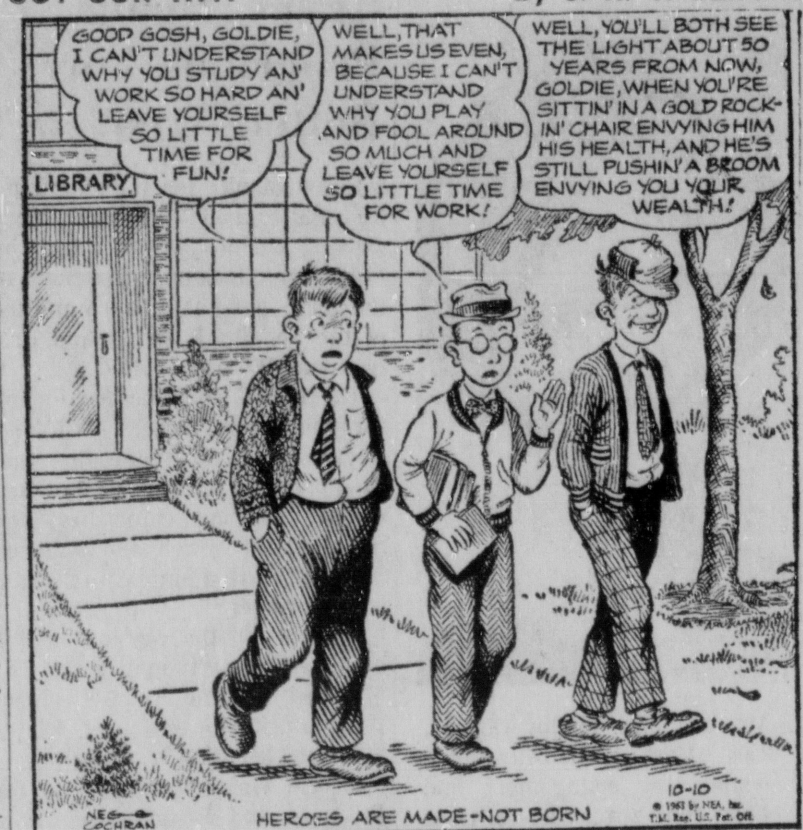

Taney—11.1 miles grading and bridging on U.S. 65 from the Christian County line south to near Branson. Includes bridges over Bear Creek, North Emory Creek, Middle Emory Creek, South Emory Creek and Bee Creek.

Urban projects: Audrain — 1.1 miles grading, bridging, concrete paving and traffic signals on U.S. 54 in Mexico from Clark Street east along Boulevard Street to Huntington Drive then north to Liberty Street. Includes underpasses at the Gulf, Mobile and Ohio Railroad and the Wabash Railroad.

Start New Life With A New Name

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Lauren H. Whan III and his family arrived from Kansas Monday to start a new life with a new name. Until recently they were the Lauren Newmans.

Lauren Whan III lost track of his father when he was 10 years old, 25 years ago.

After years of searching telephone books from hundreds of cities, Lauren III found a Whan in Los Angeles who turned out to be an uncle. The uncle told the younger Whan his father was in Fort Myers, as vice president of Texas Crystal Co. The son contacted his father.

Two weeks ago, the younger Whan resigned his job as detective sergeant on the Prairie Village, Kan., police force and accepted a job with his father's company.

Whan, his wife and children—Mark, Lisa and Richard—moved to Florida. Before they came, they had the District Court at Olathe, Kan., change their name from Newman to Whan.

The younger Whan said his parents were divorced when he was 10. He went to Montana and adopted the name of a step-father. Not until his grandmother Whan died in 1950 and he inherited her belongings did he establish his true identity.

Ap SPECIAL REPORT

the whole vast, over-peopled, and impatient continent.

"This is a most critical moment for Asia," said one highly placed informant. "You might say this whole area now is up for grabs."

It seems probable that a long hard struggle is ahead to prevent the whole continent from falling one day under Communist domination.

The most significant development for Asia in the past decade has been the violent quarrel between the Communist parties of the Soviet Union and Red China.

This has produced some startling results:

—There is a prospect now that while U.S. and British military aid helps protect India's borders from the Red Chinese threat, Soviet missiles may be used eventually to protect India's cities from the Red Chinese.

—Ally is bickering with ally. While Red China and her supporters in Asia snipe at Moscow, a sulky Pakistan, once called the staunchest foe of communism in Asia, is flirting with the Red Chinese.

—The split had produced political changes in India, and for Asia probably has tarnished the figure of Prime Minister Nehru as a leader of nonaligned nations.

—There are developing signs of shoals ahead for Western treaty alliances.

Yet there are also clear indications that the Chinese-Soviet split is being overstressed to an extent that can lead to dangerous consequences.

To Indians, the split seems to have become a question as simple as black and white: the Chinese have become all bad—therefore those who seem to oppose the Red Chinese must be the reverse. This includes the Soviet party and its followers.

Even in Southeast Asia circles closely connected with the United States and the West one can detect a superabundance of optimism. This seems based on the notion that the Red Chinese have lost implicit support of the Russians, should Peking think in terms of embarking on reckless adventures. But Peking always has had the long view of domination in Asia by slow stages, despite its defiance of nuclear "paper tigers."

The more cautious element in Southeast Asia makes allowance for the possibility of events—a showdown crisis in which Moscow may have to stand up and be counted, or a change of leadership either in Peking or Moscow—which could cause the Russians and Chinese to close ranks.

Although the world's attention was diverted by the Cuban missile crisis last October, Red China's attack at that time on India's frontiers was an event of enormous cold war significance.

India turned in virtual panic to the United States for military help. It got aid, under the U.S.-British Nassau agreement, but this tended to damage Nehru's standing as the Asian leader of nonalignment.

The Indians are getting arms, ammunition and technical assistance for their armed forces. They wanted a bit more. The Indians hinted broadly that they wanted Nike-Zeus ground-to-air missiles for defensive purposes around the big Indian cities.

The United States did not take the hint. Possibly the reaction in Pakistan, which constantly expresses fear of the Indians, played a part. The Indians, who claim they have always turned important one way or the other. But the treaty shows other signs of weakness.

The cracks may become more evident as the months go by. A meeting of SEATO is tentatively scheduled for Manila in the spring. It will be interesting to see if some of its members, including Pakistan, will show up.

The exigencies of Asian politics, the variety of conflicts among Southeast Asian nations themselves, have tended to produce a situation in which SEATO members look directly to the United States for assistance in time of danger, rather than to action within the framework of the alliance.

To Honor Parents

Tigers To Face Columbia Friday

Friday night the mothers and fathers of the Smith-Cotton football players will be honored at the Tiger-Columbia High School Kewpies game in the Jennie Jaynes Lewis stadium. Their identification will consist of a beautiful mum for mother while dad will be wearing a "sandwich" board with his sons football number.

Columbia invades Sedalia with probably it's saddest record in years having won one, lost two and tied one for the overall season play while conference standing shows one tie and one loss. The only win was over Kirksville.

The Tigers have not fared so well, they have played four and lost four, with two of the losses being in conference play. The first to the Hannibal Pirates who also defeated Columbia and to the Jefferson City Jays. Columbia also played a 7-7 tie game with Rolla, and lost to Jefferson City Helias.

This has been a busy week in the "dust bowl" and "concrete" floor at the Jennie Jaynes stadium. The boys have been given hard workouts every night and so far have succeeded in missing injuries other than a few bruises as a result of the hard gridiron. The Tigers field is as hard and dry as concrete, and dust flies at every movement.

Showing up this week in practice are two sophomores, Jim Arnest, halfback and Jim Lewellen, a 182 pound tackle. Coach Rees also had other kind words to speak about Keith Norlund 160 pound tackle and Steve Young, lineman, both juniors.

Wayne Burton appeared to be getting in a good week also, Coach Rees reported, as did Cliff Banks.

"I am positive the fans will see considerable action from these sophomores mentioned along with Bill Herrick, who has improved from the nose injury," Rees said, "and we should have a good game this weekend, after all Hannibal only beat us by one-point while they defeated Hannibal by two touchdowns."

The boys show the effects of their loss to Jefferson City by the 41-0 score, but to the extent they are working harder this week to straighten out some problems and get ready to take on the Kewpies from Columbia. The boys feel this is one game they'll be at least on a little better than equal footing.

Coach Roark, of the Kewpies, an alumni of Smith-Cotton, will be making his team fight all the harder to over power his old school's team.

Bo Belinsky Signs With The Angels

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bo Belinsky, picked by many as the athlete most likely to succeed in getting traded without really trying, turns out to be the first man the Los Angeles Angels have signed for 1964.

Belinsky, in fact, is the first player in the major leagues to come to terms for next season. And nothing could put Bo more hilariously out of character than getting something done early. The only thing he's ever done on time before is buy cars.

Until very recently, Belinsky was just about certain he'd be traded this winter. And if they didn't trade him, he figured, they'd perform so much surgery on his salary he'd be exempted from the federal income tax.

To his stark amazement, he discovered Wednesday that the Angels are dropping neither him nor his wages.

"It's a gas," he said.

Belinsky achieved wide public notice last year on two counts. When he pitched a no-hitter against the Baltimore Orioles, he became famous. But when his social engagements kept him from getting home before the morning paper, his employers became furious.

This year Bo pitched no no-hitters and many multiple-hitters. He lost seven of his first eight decisions and was optioned to Hawaii in May. He resisted. The Angels cut off his salary. He reconsidered and reported to Hawaii in July. The Angels recalled him in September.

Next year, he promises, he'll be a most changed man.

A reporter who reached Belinsky at his hotel asked: "How did you come to sign so early?" "I've got this job in Honolulu," Belinsky said. "I'm going to be a host at Hutch's Supper Club. I went into see Mr. Haney (Angel general manager Fred Haney) and asked if I could get a couple of bucks in advance, to hold me over a little in Hawaii. He probably would have given me a personal loan, but he mentioned my 1964 contract. If I wanted to sign that, he said, I could get an advance on it. When he said I'd get the same as last year (about $15,000), I couldn't get to the pencil and paper fast enough."

Dallas Braces Up For Big Weekend

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas braced today for its biggest weekend of football in history.

It is the first time for Dallas, possibly any city, to have the No. 1, No. 2 and No. 4 teams playing on one weekend.

No. 1 Oklahoma meets No. 2 Texas in the Cotton Bowl Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m., CST as the piece de resistance of a riotous two days.

Friday night Navy, the No. 4 team, will start things rolling against Southern Methodist.

Friday night Southern Methodist and Navy expect to draw only 30,000. But Saturday Texas and Oklahoma will jam 75,504 into the big saucer.

Oklahoma To Outlast Texas, Purdue Upsetting Badgers

By MAJ. AMOS B. HOOPLE
Peerless Prognosticator

EGAD, friends, you have a treat coming this week. For the first time this season I am making my entire forecast without the assistance of any of the members of my scientific staff.

In fact, after the dismal forecasting by several of them in recent weeks, I had considered firing them all. But with the compassion for which we Hooplers are well known, I just gave them a week off—without pay—hakkaff!

A careful perusal of the records and abilities of this weekend's opponents indicates that most of the favored elevens will walk off the field with the honors.

The leading engagement will match Oklahoma and arch-rival Texas. I predict Oklahoma will outlast the Longhorns, 25-18, in a bruising battle.

Other contests worthy of special note will feature Michigan, the Air Force Academy and Nebraska, and Ohio State and Illinois. The Hoople System foresees victories for Michigan State, Air Force, and Ohio State.

The big upset of the day will occur in Madison, where Purdue's Boilermakers will hammer out a hard-won 17-14 triumph over Wisconsin — hurrumph!

Now go on with the forecast.

Bullets Down Royals

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Terry Dischinger's field goal broke a 94-all tie with 42 seconds to play and the Baltimore Bullets defeated the Cincinnati Royals 97-95 in a National Basketball Association exhibition Wednesday night.

Work Ahead On Sunday For Sam Huff

NEW YORK (AP)—Violent Sam Huff, middle linebacker of the New York Giants, sat on a bench in the club dressing room and talked about Jimmy Brown.

"My wife phoned me in Washington Saturday night and asked me if I'd seen him in the Brown-Steeler game on TV," Sam said. "She seemed afraid for me."

There's a sound basis for Mrs. Huff's concern. Sam will be one of the chief agents in the Giants' attempts to contain the 230-pound fullback in New York's key National Football League game with the Cleveland Browns Sunday.

The Eastern Conference lead will be at stake. The Browns, bolting along unbeaten under new coach Blanton Collier, currently hold the lead with a 4-0 record. The Giants, defending conference champs, are 3-1 going into their home opener.

The Giants will be healthy for the first time in three weeks with all hands ready to go. Fullback Alex Webster, who has missed the last three games with a back ailment, will start on offense along with Phil King, who injured his left instep last week.

Coach Allie Sherman said he wanted that duo, the Giants' two big backs, in starting roles to give bald Y.A. Tittle, 36, better pass protection. Tittle, who was on the sidelines for New York's only loss, leads the league in passing with 50 completions in 82 tries for 752 yards and nine touchdowns in three games.

Most of the concern, however, is not with Tittle's protection but with stopping Brown, a five-time league rushing leader who is off to his greatest start. He has gained 664 yards and scored seven touchdowns, both league highs.

Junior League Soccer Action Is Unofficial

Lack of players made Wednesday's Junior League soccer action unofficial, but Adco whipped T&G Motors 1-0, and Optimist and Mutual of Omaha played to a 3-3 standoff.

Eugene Kobisky scored all three goals for Mutual of Omaha in the tie game, while Jimmie Frances, Bill Salzbrener and Bernard Cathedral accounted for one each for Optimist.

The Adco-T&G Motors game had some interesting sidelights to offer. T&G's fullback, who preferred to remain anonymous, inadvertently scored Adco's only point. In a scramble on the playing field, his ball accidentally headed the ball toward the wrong goal—but it counted for Adco.

Even the coaches saw some action in Wednesday's game and one of them, Cathedral, accounted for a goal.

Adco has the dubious distinction of being the only team in the Sedalia Optimist soccer loop that can boast of having a barefoot goalie. Gary Cornell, despite his lack of shoes, gave an excellent account of himself Wednesday night, making some beautiful stops, one on a penalty shot.

The Junior League, still looking for team members, will see action again Oct. 13 when T&G Motors (1-1) will face Optimist (0-0-2) at 2:30 p.m., and Adco (1-0-1) goes against Mutual of Omaha (0-1-1) at 3:30. All games are at Centennial Park.

American, British Golfers Clash In Ryder Cup Series

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Professional golf stars of the United States and Britain clash here Friday in the 15th biennial Ryder Cup series in an atmosphere dominated by the greatest amateur of them all—Bob Jones.

This is Bob Jones' home, and he still is king—not only to his worshipping neighbors but to the present-day giants of the game.

Arnold Palmer is terrific, Julius Boros is an amazing physical specimen at 43 and Peter Alliss of England is one of the all-time stylists. But all of them look to Jones as the emperor.

"Bob Jones is marvelous—an ideal of golfers everywhere," said Alliss. "I am sure he is revered as much in Britain as he is in the United States."

Jones, now 61, confined to a wheel chair by a crippling illness

Keane Would Be Happier With Pennant

HOUSTON (AP)—Johnny Keane says the only thing that would have made him happier than being named National League Manager of the Year would have been winning the pennant.

The spunky little St. Louis Cardinal skipper was named to the top honor among National League managers Wednesday in The Associated Press poll of sportswriters and sportscasters.

"This is great," said the 51-year-old Keane, a baseball veteran who never played in the major leagues.

"The honor is even more pleasant to me because there are so many good managers in the National League."

Keane polled 33 of 71 votes cast with Walter Alston of the world champion Dodgers getting 15 and Bobby Bragan, of Milwaukee, three.

Keane was a shortstop in the minor leagues and worked his way up to manager jobs in the Cardinal system with stops at Albany, Ga., Houston, Rochester, N.Y., Columbus, Ohio and Omaha. Keane's team made a bold late season run for the pennant this year before losing three straight to Los Angeles to finish second.

Keane is very optimistic about his Cardinals in the 1964 race.

Columbia Swamps Local Frosh Team

Columbia swamped the Smith-Cotton Tigers freshman team, 21-12, Wednesday in a hard-fought game at Columbia.

Smith-Cotton lost out in the first half due to the bad protection for the ball carriers. Columbia managed to score 14 points in the second quarter, which won the game for them.

In the last period, the Tigers began to use quick passes up the middle and got two TDs, but their effort was not enough to win.

See Four Big Eight Backs Potential All-Americans

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Backfield talent is so plentiful this season in Big Eight football it isn't far fetched to name four league backs as potential All-American players.

A lineup of Dennis Claridge of Nebraska at quarterback, Gale Sayers of Kansas and Joe Don Looney of Oklahoma at halfbacks and Jim Grisham of Oklahoma at fullback would equal any foursome in the land, in the view of the Associated Press District 5 All America Board.

All four are prime prospects. This group is possibly the best in the conference history, board members said, and certainly the best since 1951, when the top four were Eddie Crowder and Billy Vessels of Oklahoma, Bobby Reynolds of Nebraska and Charlie Hoag of Kansas.

Claridge, a 6-foot-3½, 222-pound senior, is a top passer, runner and kicker. He leads the conference in total offense and is headed for the league's exclusive 3,000-yard club in career offense. He needs 75 yards in his last seven games.

Sayers, a 202-pound junior who runs 100 yards in 9.7 seconds, may become the first back in league history to put two 1,000-yard rushing seasons back to back. He was the nation's no. 3 runner with 1,125 last season. Sayers leads the league in rushing, despite the nullifying of two scoring runs totalling 105 yards, and is on top in pass receiving.

Looney, a 217-pound senior, is also a 9.7 man and an outstanding kicker who led the nation in punting last season. Held back by a sore leg in the opener, he led the Sooners in their victory over Southern California. His long runs were the key to several OU victories last year. He is the first junior college transfer ever to play for Bud Wilkinson.

Grisham is a 207-pound junior who may be the best two-way fullback in the conference in 25 years. He's a tremendous runner, blocker and savage inebriator, who punished Alabama for 106 yards in the Orange Bowl. Wilkinson says Grisham is the best all-around fullback he's ever coached.

Outstanding as this foursome is, the board noted other backs who aren't far behind. They include halfback Willie Ross of Nebraska, a swift 202-pounder; fullback Willis Crenshaw of Kansas State, who can do it all and plays defensive end superbly; fullback Tom Vaughn of Iowa State, fleet and powerful; and fullback Ken Coleman of Kansas, a good two-way player.

"I would say everything is relative," Connolly told newsmen. "Goldwater has considerable strength in Texas. But every indication from my travels and from public opinion polls shows Kennedy leading by substantial margins."

The Texas governor cited one poll that showed Kennedy running 8 per cent ahead of Goldwater. Assuming a vote of 3 million, Connolly said this would mean a Kennedy majority of 240,000 — more than five times his 1960 margin. Texas' electoral vote total of 25 is the sixth highest in the nation and the largest number among the 11 Southern states.

Kennedy's visit to Texas Nov. 21 and 22, an admittedly political venture, is set for three days after two scheduled appearances for the Chief Executive appearances in Florida.

In the afternoon of Nov. 18, he is to address the State Chamber of Commerce at Tampa and in the evening he speaks to the Inter-American Press Association at Miami.

The Florida trip is labeled non-political. But it will give Kennedy exposure in a state that he lost by 46,776 votes in 1960 to former Vice President Richard M. Nixon. Florida's 14 electoral votes next year put it second to Texas among Southern states.

Kennedy carried six Southern states in 1960. He lost Florida, Virginia and Tennessee to the Republicans, and lost Mississippi to a slate of unpledged states' rights electors. He split Alabama's votes with unpledged electors.

The increased prominence of the racial issue, coupled with Kennedy's strong advocacy of civil rights legislation, has raised doubts whether he will do that well in the South again next year.

In Arkansas Thursday, Kennedy stayed away from the racial question except for a plea for equal rights in a speech to an integrated audience at Little Rock. Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus, who has indicated lately he is lukewarm to Kennedy's probate 1964 candidacy, took a slap at the President's civil rights policies in introducing him at a dam dedication.

In Texas and Florida, the civil rights issue is not regarded as strong politically as in such states as Alabama and Mississippi. In fact, Gov. Connolly told Kennedy he "did not think civil rights would be a controlling factor in Texas next year."

Kennedy's other trips announced Friday include two visits to his home state of Massachusetts and one to New York.

On Oct. 19 the President is scheduled to speak at a Democratic fund-raising dinner in Boston. On Oct. 26 he will receive an honorary degree and participate in ceremonies for a Robert Frost memorial library at Amherst College in Amherst, Mass.

Kennedy's other scheduled trip is a Nov. 8 visit to New York City where he will be honored at a testimonial dinner by the city's Protestant Council.

JFK Reveals Another Tour Is Scheduled

WASHINGTON (AP)—On the heels of his return from a one-day visit to Arkansas, President Kennedy has announced he will visit four other states this fall, including two key Southern battlegrounds—Texas and Florida.

Texas in particular figures to play an important part in next year's presidential election, especially if Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona is the Republican nominee.

Strong Goldwater sentiment in Texas was admitted Friday by Texas Gov. John Connally, after a visit with Kennedy at the White House. But he said the President still holds a substantial margin in Texas.

Connally, a close political associate of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, was asked about reports of Goldwater strength in the Lone Star State, which Kennedy carried by only 45,767 votes of the more than 2.3 million cast in the 1960 election.

"I would say everything is relative," Connally told newsmen. "Goldwater has considerable strength in Texas. But every indication from my travels and from public opinion polls shows Kennedy leading by substantial margins."

Bishop Frank Reports

Strikes Against Democracy For Latin American People

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Democracy will not work in Latin America under present conditions there, Bishop Eugene M. Frank of the St. Louis area of the Methodist Church said Tuesday night.

Bishop Frank recently returned from a two-month tour of Methodist missions in Latin America and Africa. He reported his findings in an address delivered to about 500 Methodist laymen in Kansas City and carried by telephone to similar meetings in 15 Missouri cities.

Most every constitution in Latin America is copied from ours, he said, but the basic Puritan ethics and morals which have made ours work are almost totally absent in Latin America.

"From business to religion, life is based on bribery," he said. Every man has his price, and so does God.

"Democracy will not work in Latin America. Only external authority is recognized. A leader is a man to be overthrown, replaced as quickly as possible with personal friends. Too many forces inside and outside profit hand-somely from this instability for strong central government to develop."

Bishop Frank attributed part of the incompatibility to the Roman Catholic Church, and he predicted the Vatican Council in Rome will inspire new attitudes in Latin America.

"No place outside of Spain needs this fresh air more urgently," he said, "but it will be at least another generation before fresh air can reach the deep caverns in which the illiterate, superstitious nationals are supervised by half-educated, intolerant priests."

"Anybody who thinks even the Pope has the power to change this very rapidly is naive, but the windows have been opened. A priest in Bolivia said that within 10 years one would not be able to recognize the Roman Church in Latin America. North American and European priests are replacing older leadership. Universities are re-placing older faculty with North American and European professors....

"I must simply remind you that the real crisis in the world today is caused by a spiritual vacuum like that at the center of a great hurricane. It is a crisis of faith. Men are searching for a savior. We are supposed to be witnesses to a savior; but when the non-Christian world looks at us, they see us denying with our practice what we preach with our lips."

Another panel show, it will have its premiere on Oct. 20 with Hal March, late of "The $64,000 Question" as host. Perhaps we should be grateful it will not be called "Laffs for Sale."

CBS, after making an enormous fuss about its full, live coverage of last week's testimony by Joseph Valachi before the Senate subcommittee, quietly dropped the whole thing Tuesday except for a half-hour roundup which preempted a late afternoon re-run of "Love That Bob."

Walter Cronkite, their top newsmen, dismissed the testimony with a couple of crisp sentences—which was much less attention than rival Huntley and Brinkley gave it on NBC.

CBS last week let it be known that the Valachi hearings had cost it about a quarter of a million dollars daily—and that it got a lot of complaints from housewives about omitting their favorite games and soap operas.

While the spotlight was focused on new evening show, a couple of daytime offerings have established themselves in the NBC daytime schedule.

Merv Griffin, whose departure from last season's daytime scene was accompanied by noisy mourning, has returned with something called "Word for Word." Basis is the familiar old parlor game in which players make as many words as possible from the letters in, for example, "gardenia." ABC Picks Fill-in For '100 Grand'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The heady excitement of television's opening season is over. It's going to be business as usual from here on in.

After four or five days of Soul and show-searching, ABC finally has decided on the Sunday night replacement for the deceased "100 Grand." It is called "Laughs for Sale" and will consist of routines and sketches written by "as yet undiscovered comedy writers" and performed by professional comedians.

Another panel show, it will have its premiere on Oct. 20 with Hal March, late of "The $64,000 Question" as host. Perhaps we should be grateful it will not be called "Laffs for Sale."

Exporters Will Get Wheat From Midwest Region

KANSAS CITY (AP)—American exporters who sell wheat to the Soviet Union and other European communist nations will probably purchase the bulk of the grain through the Commodity Credit Corp. office in Kansas City, Carl Heaton, deputy director of the office said.

He said most of the wheat will come from surpluses stored in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri and will be shipped by way of the Gulf of Mexico ports of New Orleans, Houston, Galveston and Corpus Christi.

The Kansas City office of the Commodity Credit Corp. handles inventory management of government-stored surplus grains for all states west of the Mississippi River except Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Montana.

Heaton said most of the grain to be purchased by the communist nations will be hard winter wheat. He said Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri are the big producers of this type.

vision, it proved extremely dull to watch.

Young Negro Man Gets Bus Ride to KC

KANSAS CITY (AP)—John Lawrence, a 23-year-old Negro, is the first known reverse-freedom rider to be sent to Kansas City because "they said they don't want any troublemakers down there."

Down there is Birmingham, Ala., Lawrence's home town until last Friday.

"They gave me $4 for meals and the ticket for the bus. They told me 'after they bought my ticket that I was on my way to Kansas City.'"

He said it started one night as he was walking home from trade school.

Three white boys drove up in a car and said: "Get out of the road, Nigger." They jumped me, and I picked up a stick and hit one of them on the head."

Lawrence said he was arrested at home later that night and the judge said he would suspend the sentence if he left town.

"He told two police to take me down to the White Citizens Council," Lawrence said.

A group of Kansas City ministers agreed to provide him with $7 a day until he is self supporting. Lawrence hopes to get a job as a laborer.

"They treated me nice," said Lawrence of Birmingham. "But they don't want me in that town again."

Third Big Auto Sales Year in Row

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Prospects of a third big auto sales year in a row are giving the strongest supporting arguments for those who see the 1964 entire economy soaring to new highs.

There's that nice cushion such high-gear production in the auto industry will give to others, their suppliers — steel, aluminum, copper, glass, plastic, fibers. And payrolls of all concerned add to consumer purchasing power.

Also there's the spreading influence of a larger number of cars on any other phases of American life, that can be translated into dollars. More cars spur the growth of more shopping centers, restaurants, motels, drive-in movies, factories, and even banks. They also lead to the building of more highways, parking lots and garages. And increasing collections of traffic fines add to many a local government's revenues.

All of this flow of cash eventually furnishes still more persons with additional personal income. This in turn makes that many more dollars available to buy more cars.

Much of the prolonged high level of car sales now setting a record for duration and dollar volume has been attributed to the steady increase of total personal income. An affluent society tends to put car ownership (or at least a monthly payment equity) high on the list of benefits of affluence.

But some also note that this continuing high volume of auto sales runs at a higher rate than does the increase in individual incomes and thus must reflect a change in the American way of life. Cars are claiming more of the extra dollars than are most other things.

And that may be why the car market is not becoming saturated, as some had feared a few years back. The worriers noted that the number of U.S. families owning cars stayed at about 75 per cent of total population. This would seem to limit sales to population growth. But it isn't working that way.

"The demand for automobiles is growing, and at a rate considerably faster than either population or income," report the economists at the Chase Manhattan Bank, New York. "The reason: More and more U.S. families are buying not one, but two, three, and in some cases, four or more cars."

Men's Choral Club Starts Its Schedule For Fall and Winter

The Sedalia Men's Choral Club has again started its schedule for the fall and winter seasons as goodwill ambassadors from Sedalia going over the state singing.

Tuesday night, Oct. 1, they gave a concert at the new school at Green Ridge for the Green Ridge PTA and on Monday night, Oct. 7, they presented the musical program for the banquet of the national convention of the American Rabbit Breeders Association.

Coming up is a concert at Cole Camp on Oct. 29.

The club has been invited to sing at the Medium Security Prison at Moberly. They will make their annual trip to Tipton to give a concert at the Missouri Prison for Women there in December.

Resigns His Post

Robert G. Baker Subject Of Investigation by FBI

WASHINGTON (AP)—The FBI has launched an investigation into the business affairs of Robert G. Baker, 36, who resigned his $19,600 a year post as secretary to the Democratic majority in the Senate.

A Justice Department source disclosed the investigation shortly before Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield announced Baker's resignation.

The inquiry apparently began with allegations in a $300,000 civil damage suit that Baker used his office to help win contracts with a government defense subcontractor for an automatic vending machine company with which he had financial dealings.

Baker was to have met with Senate leaders of both parties Monday afternoon but turned in his resignation before the meeting.

A former Senate page who came here from Pickens, S.C., Baker was named secretary of the majority eight years ago when Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson was Senate majority leader. He reputedly was a Johnson protégé.

Baker's wife is also on the government payroll, serving as records manager for the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee at $11,800 a year.

Mansfield said in a statement that Baker had "discharged his responsibility to the majority with great intelligence and understanding" and that "his great ability and his dedication to the majority and to the Senate will be missed."

"Developments during the past few weeks, however, have made it apparent to him that it would be best if he withdrew from office," Mansfield added.

"He has acted, as was to be expected of those who know him, in what he believes are the highest interests of the Senate and the majority. I deeply regret the necessity for his resignation and the necessity for its acceptance."

Mansfield declined to go beyond his statement except to say "it's been a most difficult situation."

There was no immediate comment from Baker.

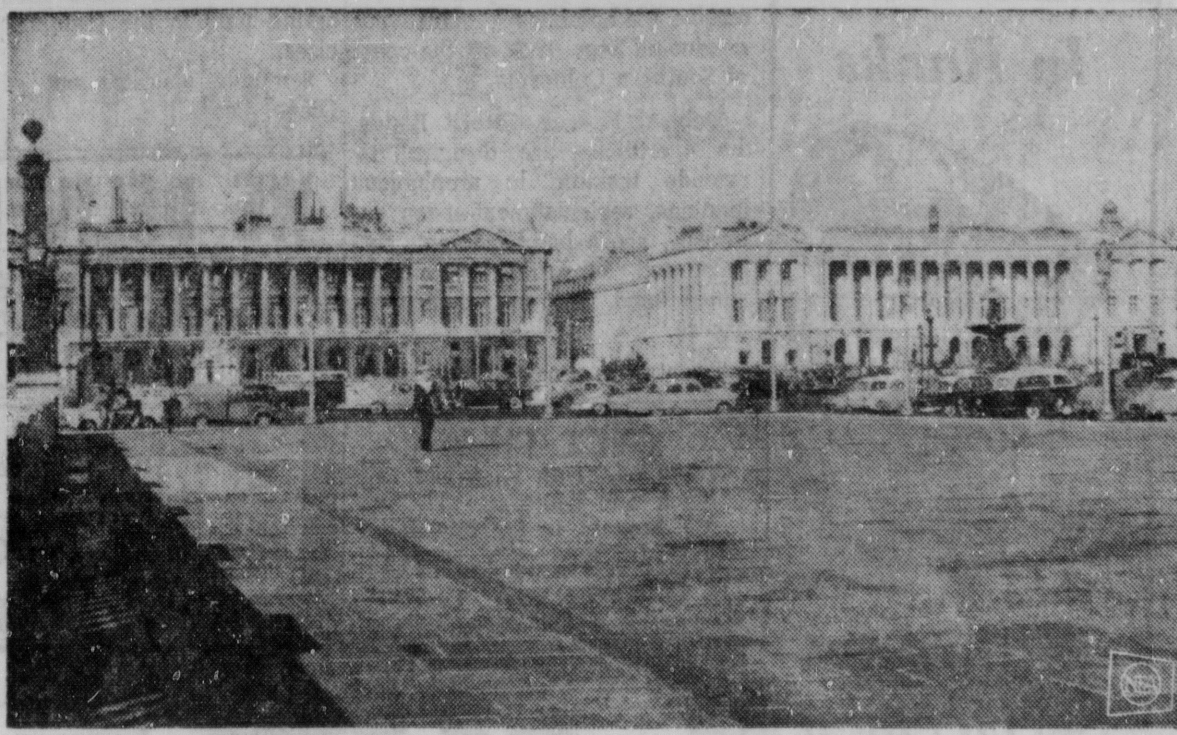

Assistant Democratic Leader Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota who sat in at the meeting after which Baker's resignation was announced, said the Democratic majority, who had chosen him, did not request his resignation.

Among the other senators at the session were Wayne Morse, D-Ore., Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., George A. Smathers, D-Fla., Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., who has been conducting his own inquiry into Baker's business activities.

"I was disappointed that Bobby did not come to the meeting to answer some questions," said Williams.

Francis R. Valeo, 47, administrative assistant to the majority leader, was assigned by Mansfield to take over Baker's duties. Valeo will serve as acting secretary to the majority pending action by the conference of Democratic senators.

Baker's business dealings came to light Sept. 9 in a law suit filed in U.S. District Court by Capitol Vending Inc. against Serv-U Corp., a vending firm with which the

THE BIG CLEANUP—These buildings standing on Paris' famed Place de la Concorde dramatize the difference that a little soap and water makes. Structure at left (since cleaned) is the Hotel Crillon. Navy Ministry building at right sparkles with a pink hue.

Bakers had financial dealings, and against Baker and other defendants.

The suit alleged that Baker "as secretary of the Senate majority was able to and did represent" that he was in a position to assist in securing contracts for the North American Aviation Corp.

Further, it alleged that Baker received $5,600 for securing a vending machine franchise at Melpar, Inc., a North American subcontractor. Melpar's principal plants are in the Washington area.

When the suit was filed, Baker denied that any influence was involved in behalf of Serv-U.

The Bakers hold $290,000 in promissory notes from Serv-U. Serv-U started operations 18 months ago and has an estimated $3.5 million in sales at five California aerospace plants doing government defense work.

Smith Ends Up a Friend Of Squirrel

EMPORIA, Kan. (AP)—There's a young squirrel hanging around the Ted Smith home that knows when he's found a friend.

Smith said it started Sunday while he was entertaining dinner guests. Loud animal noises attracted Smith to the backyard in time to rescue the small animal from a voracious alley cat. Smith said he picked up the somewhat mauled squirrel, gave the cat a whack and then put the squirrel in a tree limb and returned to his dinner party.

In a moment the squirrel started screaming again. It had fallen from the tree and with the prowling cat still in the vicinity, the squirrel headed for Smith's back door and set up such a clamor Smith had to pick it up again. This time he discovered the squirrel had a large wound under a foreleg.

Smith cleaned and dressed the wound and again put the squirrel in the tree. Again the exhausted animal fell out. This time Smith crawled atop his garage roof and placed the animal on a higher branch. But the squirrel crawled back onto his shoulder so Smith gave up.

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

Section Two Sedalia, Mo. Thurs., Oct. 10, 1963

He took the injured animal to a veterinarian who inoculated the squirrel, treated the wound and assured Smith it was not serious. Smith tried again to return the animal to its wild life but the squirrel refused to take to the trees.

So the Emporian improvised a feed container, put out a pan of water and after making sure no more cats were around left the animal asleep at the foot of a stump.

Two days later it was still making its home there.

Better Family Living

OPAL O'BRIANT

National Fire Prevention Week
National Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 6-12, calls attention to the need for every farm family to make a fire emergency plan.

These safeguards could cut fire losses in half . . .

Use foresight and care to avoid needless hazards, when you construct and equip buildings.

Search for and remove all fire hazards you can find on the farm.

Be prepared to protect lives and fight fire as soon as it's discovered.

Help provide for community fire protection, with trained men organized to put out or control large fires.

In Your Home

Build in fire stops—barriers of wood or masonry between studs, joists, rafters or stringers — to block off open channels in basement, attic and walls and prevent spread of smoke and fire.

Closed solid doors on every room can keep out smoke and fire for as long as 30 minutes.

Be sure bedroom windows are large enough and low enough so that even youngsters can climb through quickly and easily.

Interior materials should be non-burnable or treated to resist spread of fire.

Have proper wiring installed by a qualified electrician. Keep lightning rods in good condition and securely grounded. Lightning surge arresters can reduce interior damage to the home and electrical appliances by preventing surges of electricity during thunderstorms.

Around the Farm

Mount a telephone on your yard pole at a safe distance from any building. Post the fire department number on it. This may be your only means of calling the fire department if your home is in flames.

A full 3,000 gallon, covered cistern may save your home or outbuildings. It could also serve as an emergency water supply in case of natural disaster or enemy attack.

Locate farm ponds close enough to farm buildings for fire-fighting use.

Have a qualified electrician install barn and shed wiring.

What Does the Label on Cuts of Beef Mean?

A Delmonico steak is a boneless club steak or a boneless rib steak. It contains no tenderloin, the tender muscle primarily found in Porterhouse and T-bone steaks.

A Club steak contains little or no tenderloin muscle. It may or may not contain a rib bone. The steak primarily consists of the so-called rib-eye muscle.

The T-bone steaks contain a moderate amount of tenderloin muscle as well as the rib-eye muscle. It may or may not have a T-shaped bone.

A Porterhouse steak contains the largest amount of tenderloin muscle along with the rib-eye muscle. Frequently markets label club and T-bone steaks as porterhouse steak. So if you're paying Porterhouse prices, look for the tenderloin muscle which is found on the other side of the bone from the larger rib-eye muscle.

If you like a Tenderloin steak, Fillet Mignon, it is cut from the tenderloin muscle, usually of low grade beef. Although tender, there is very little flavor.

Hip-bone sirloin steaks, Pin-bone sirloin steaks are cut from the area next to the porterhouse. Contains some tenderloin muscle, the hip-bone, and may also contain a T-shaped bone. Due to the position of the hip-bone (near the fat layer) there is a great deal of waste.

Flat-bone sirloin steak, Double-bone sirloin steak, Long-bone sirloin steak has a long flat bone, and some tenderloin muscle. Contains a large area of tender, flavorful meat which can be carved into a number of attractive servings.

Leg of Lamb Tops the List Of Specials

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Leg of lamb, offered at bargain prices, tops the list of weekend specials in supermarkets and neighborhood stores this week.

A big Eastern supermarket chain is featuring lamb legs at 49 cents a pound, off 20 cents from last week. The oven-ready variety is tagged at 57 cents a pound, also off 20 cents.

Other meat counter specials include turkeys and cod steaks. Beef prices are higher in the East with sirloin steaks up 4 cents a pound from last week and rib roast up 10 cents.

The price of eggs dipped 2 cents a dozen in some areas.

Lamb production has been increasing seasonally and more lamb is available than at any time since early April.

Supplies of beef are ample as marketings of cattle increase seasonally.

The outlook for the new fall crop of potatoes is good. The harvest nationally is expected to be a little larger than last year.

Grapes for table use, jams and jellies are plentiful this season. California grape growers will harvest a record crop of 3.3 million tons.

Lower-cost selections among apples are the cooking varieties and McIntosh.

Special offerings on vegetable counters include washed spinach, large tomatoes, celery, brussels sprouts, avocado pears, sweet potatoes and string beans.

Film Festival Will Include 'The Victors'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A Hollywood film will be shown at the San Francisco Film Festival for the first time in its seven-year history.

Carl Foreman's film, "The Victors," will be shown out of competition on opening night, Oct. 30, festival officials said Wednesday.

Foreman wrote, produced and directed "The Victors" with an international cast that includes television's Dr. Ben Casey, Vincent Edwards.

the inedible portions of products, reduces bulk, weight and perishability. Many convenience foods that are uniform in size, shape, and quality can be marketed more economically than the nonuniform counterparts.

Boeing Sets the UF Pace

If contributions of the Boeing Company and the Boeing employees to the Sedalia-Pettis County United Fund are criteria then this October's campaign certainly should succeed in reaching the $78,000 goal.

We know James Simon, president of the UF board was elated over this initial response; so were Robert Severide, Boeing manager, representing the company; and David Ammons, Joseph Dickinson and Robert St. Helens, for the employees, when they made the presentation on the first day of the drive.

The total, $2,878.50, from the Boeing people is significant in that it comes from many men and women who are temporary residents in this area, although some will be here permanently, we hope.

This is an example that may well stimulate other firms and individuals to hasten completion of the campaign by voluntary contributions without personal solicitation. If Boeing can wrap up such substantial monetary support for the United Fund in short order, others can do the same and just as enthusiastically.

Procrastination seems to be the devil that has haunted previous UF campaigns until fervor became so anemic a barrel of pep pills wouldn't suffice to restore vigor.

A few more early injections like that given by the Boeing people would add considerable encouragement to many persons who are devoting so much effort to putting over the United Fund campaign this year.

Hats off to Boeing!

Who's next, quickly?

NEW YORK HERALD-TRIBUNE: A Nhu Twist.—With the elephant jokes still barely off the ground (Why don't elephants fly? They haven't been certified by FAA), along come the gnu jokes—or, more properly the Nhu jokes. No Nhus is good news has, of course, been burned to a crisp, though a variation comes along in a suggested headline on a story on Vietnamese censorship: No News Is Good—Nhus. Then there's the greeting exchanged by people meeting on the streets of Saigon—"So what else is Nhu?" President Diem's government becomes the Nhu Deal; Mrs. Nhu wears the Nhuset thing in clothing. Every few days our Ambassador Lodges a Nhu protest, but the answer is always Ngo.

Just entre Nhu, it's all enough to addle a person who's trying to report the Nhus.

Learn Before Leading

"There was a time in the nations history when Americans pledged their lives, fortunes and sacred honor to the struggle for liberty. Today many citizens begrudge the efforts needed to preserve liberty. The quality called social responsibility is not developed in Americans today."

These are the opinions recently expressed by the National Education Association and the American Association of School Administrators.

The educators contend that lack of funds and indifference of the public toward their schools, make it difficult for the schools to encourage students to take their community problems seriously. They are probably right,

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Pettis and Saline counties are assured of a 300-mile electrical service system, J. U. Morris, county extension agent reported. Over 900 farmers have paid membership fees and signed applications for current from the Central Missouri Electric Cooperative and in Saline county the project engineer has already begun planning the probable location of the lines.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Sedalia Chapter, Order of DeMolay, at a meeting in the Masonic Temple elected the following officers: Master Counselor, Wesley H. Swift; Senior Counselor, Ernest Holst; Junior Counselor, William Younger; Scribe, Robert Evans; and Treasurer, Louis Oswald. The Rev. R. C. Lippard and W. W. Blain, special guests, gave talks.

but is it the student's responsibility to look after the welfare of his town? Most young people are eager to be of service. Many of their extra-curricular interests are dedicated to community service, but students should be training for service, not expected to produce too soon.

The schools' job is to educate, to impart knowledge and to develop leadership.

It is vital for students to develop interest in their immediate society and their neighborhood and the community welfare but let them first learn well the content material in the school curriculum — and trust that community consciousness and leadership will develop as his knowledge penetrates.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

JFK Hesitation Aids Latin Dictators

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Two inside administration debates are now taking place which punctuate Eleanor Roosevelt's one-time statement: "I wish Mr. Kennedy had less profile and more courage."

Mrs. Roosevelt's remark referred to JFK's book "Profiles in Courage" and his failure to speak out on Joe McCarthy, but it is echoed by some of his own friends today regarding two important decisions today:

1. Courageous action to prevent the march of Latin American dictators.

2. The sale of wheat to Communist nations. In regard to both the President has hesitated, delayed and looked so much to Congress for leadership that the Soviet is already picking up flour elsewhere while the march of dictators has pretty well nullified Kennedy's own much-publicized Alliance for Progress.

Here is the inside story of what has happened:

The march of dictators probably dates back to Kennedy's extension of a $100,000,000 credit to the Argentine military after they had kicked out the civilian president. The U.S. ambassador had warned that the credit would be withdrawn if civilian rule was toppled, but Kennedy went ahead with the credit anyway.

If this did not start the march of dictators, certainly JFK's sly wink at the Peruvian military a short time later did. For after U.S. Ambassador James Loeb had argued himself blue in the face warning the Peruvian military they must respect the Peruvian elections, and after the military had battered down President Prado's gates with Sherman tanks anyway, Kennedy proceeded to cut the ground right out from under his ambassador.

He removed Loeb because the Peruvian military didn't like him, and kept him dangling without a job for one year.

Two Foreign Policies

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Rusk and Assistant Secretary Ed Martin had advised no recognition of the new Peruvian regime. While they were advising this policy, however, the wise Peruvian ambassador in Washington, Fernando Berckemeyer, advised his government to the contrary. He got his information from JFK's close friend Charley Bartlett.

What this meant was that there are two sets of foreign policy in the Kennedy administration. There is that recommended by the State Department, and that put into effect regardless of the State Department, by Central Intelligence and the U.S. military.

Up until last week, when the President recalled CIA chief John R. Richardson from Saigon because he had been undercutting Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge; and when he instructed Major Gen. Theodore Bogart to back up the American ambassador, Charles R. Burrows, in Honduras, JFK appeared to be listening more to the military and the CIA than to his diplomats.

As a result, what the U.S. ambassador says has meant almost nothing and the march of dictators has continued.

President Eisenhower, usually considered a cautious executive, did not hesitate to land 6,000 Marines and order the entire Sixth Fleet to Lebanon to keep a civilian president of Lebanon in power. But JFK has done nothing in waters much closer to home and more vital to the United States, the Caribbean, even when officially requested to intervene by the government of the Dominican Republic.

Vaccination on Wheat

Regarding the sale of wheat to Communist-bloc countries, the President also had definite advice from the State Department. Secretary Rusk and his East European experts all advised that the sale of wheat and flour to Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria and Hungary—which officially ordered $60,000,000 worth; and to the Soviet which indicated it wanted $200,000,000 worth, should be OK'd.

It would help the drain on the dollar and start profitable trade with these countries, the State Department recommended.

This was seconded by three cabinet officers chiefly concerned, Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges and Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon.

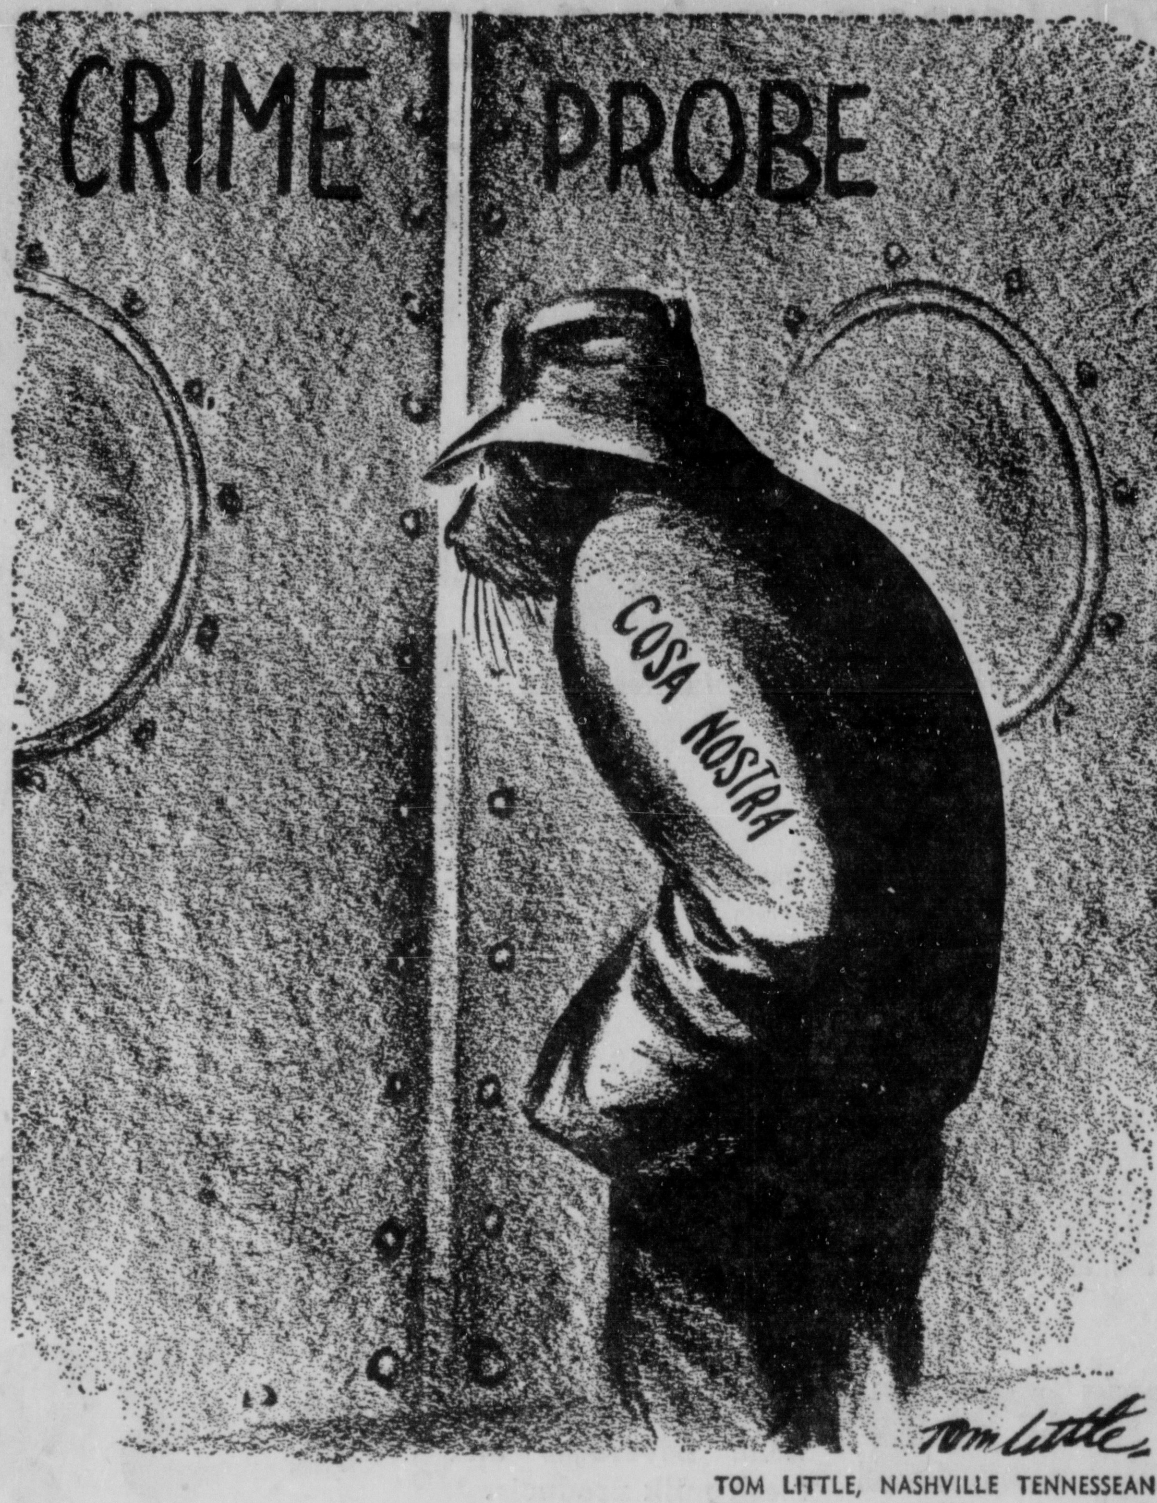

Only one cabinet member was doubtful—Secretary of HEW Anthony Celebrezze, who warned that big city populations would be opposed. He had in mind Hungarians, Polish-Americans and Italo-Americans. Celebrezze was one-time mayor of Cleveland, biggest Hungarian city in the United States.

This gave JFK, who always worries about votes, some pause. He also worries about Republican leaders in Congress. So he instructed his cabinet members to hold a series of hearings with Congress to try to win its approval. This was done. Congress did not oppose; however, GOP leaders indicated they would not pass a resolution of approval. They were neutral.

So JFK continued to hesitate. If Harry Truman had waited for Congress to OK his aid to Greece and Turkey before going ahead with it, those two countries would be Communist today.

Meanwhile, Russian buyers have been busy picking up odd lots of wheat all over the world and buying American flour, milled by European middlemen. This delay means that the original expected purchase of American wheat will probably be cut in half.

Draft Rejections Worry Leaders

By J. W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and a lot of other Americans are worried about the bad showing made by so many young men tested for military service.

Last year a few over 300,000 reported for initial draft examinations. Virtually half of them were found unqualified for service. Nearly a fourth flunked fairly simple mental tests.

This is enough to alarm anybody, and Kennedy has set up a high-level task force to prepare a program for the guidance, testing, counselling, training and rehabilitation of those who don't measure up.

The task force is to make a preliminary report the first of next month and a final report by the first of the year.

Bad as the situation is, those undertaking the study can find rays of hope.

One is in the experience of the Army with illiterates in World War II, referred to by Kennedy in announcing the new effort.

The Army set up special training units for men who couldn't read or write, and trained 300,000 of them. Of these, 85 per cent passed the courses and went on to serve as soldiers.

A sampling of these once-illiterates showed that a fourth of them rose to the rank of corporal or better, and a considerable number won decorations.

Another encouraging study is reported by the President's Council on Physical Fitness.

It found that the first time some 200,000 school children were given a minimum physical fitness test, about one-third of them failed. After 12 weeks of rather simple exercises, over 80 per cent could pass.

American children have ranked behind European youth in fitness. But there now come reports that the children in West Germany are getting soft and flabby as their country waxes fat and prosperous.

The West German children, say these reports, are going in for rich food and driving around in Volkswagens.

The Doctor Says

Severe Strokes Strike Where Least Expected

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Like a stroke of lightning, an apoplectic stroke may strike where it is least expected. Although it is more likely to occur in persons who are past 70, some 50,000 in the age group 25 to 65 have severe strokes in this country every year.

Age, therefore, is not the primary cause. Anything that suddenly cuts off the circulation to a part of the brain will cause a stroke and as a result the victim may be paralyzed, speechless or mentally confused depending on what part of the brain is involved.

Thus, if high blood pressure causes one of the small arteries in the brain to rupture, the resulting hemorrhage may cause enough pressure on some area of the brain to obstruct the circulation.

Another cause is the breaking loose of a clot within a large vessel or from the walls of the heart itself and the lodging of the clot in one of the vessels of the brain that is too small to allow it to pass.

A more gradual process is the deposition of calcium or fat in the walls of the brain's arteries. When this arterial hardening reaches the point of obstructing the artery, a stroke occurs.

Until recent years the victim of a stroke was considered to be a hopeless case and was allowed to merely vegetate until he died. Several bits of modern medical know-how have combined to make the outlook much rosier, however. Autopsy studies have shown that in about 25 per cent of persons who are over 30 there is enough arterial hardening in the brain to make a stroke likely.

Similar studies in persons over 70 have shown that many of them have had strokes without knowing it (involvement of the so-called silent areas of the brain). In others there have been a series of what are now known as little strokes.

A person who has a little stroke doesn't have paralysis, but instead may undergo a slight change in personality observable only to persons who are close to him. If, for example, he had always been a fastidious dresser he may suddenly become untidy in his appearance.

The trick is to recognize the candidate for a stroke before the stroke occurs. This can now be done by means of a dye that can be introduced into the brain's circulation in the X-ray room so that the pattern of the cerebral arteries can be caught on an X-ray film. The dye is harmless and is being used on an ever widening scale to detect potentially weak spots in time to apply preventive measures.

Another group of stroke victims examined at autopsy showed no brain hemorrhage or occluded arteries. This led to the discovery that a stroke might result if the occlusion occurred in the arteries of the neck before they reached the brain. About 3 per cent of stroke victims fall in this category.

This discovery is important because it is so much easier to repair blood vessels in the neck than in the brain. This means not only that much can be done for this large group of victims but that it can be done by doctors who are not brain surgeons, the latter being still relatively rare.

Approve Women As Lay Readers

LONDON (AP)—The Church of England agreed Wednesday that women should be allowed to conduct some services and preach sermons. They will be licensed as lay readers, not priests.

The decision shocked some bishops and bachelor priests but it went through the convocation of Canterbury after two days of debate.

Canon law must be revised so the women can take up their duties. Since the Church of England is the national established church, Parliament must approve.

Manners Aren't Automatic

by Ruth Millet,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

One of my readers writes that her 15-year-old daughter has such poor manners that she is ashamed of her daughter's behavior before guests.

"How can I make her realize that good manners are important?" she asks.

Obviously, you waited too long to worry about your daughter's rudeness. It's a simple trick to teach courteous ways to a 6- or 7-year-old child, for young children are excellent mimics and are eager to learn. Teenagers aren't so easily influenced.

However, there are books of etiquette written especially for teen-agers, and you might find one of these to be a help to you, since they deal expressly with the social problems that are especially important to teen-agers.

Also, it would be wise to see that your daughter gets as much social experience as possible.

Have her around when you entertain, instead of letting her go off to the movies, when you are having your friends in. Give her a job to do, so that she can forget her self-consciousness in helping you take care of guests.

But most important of all, demand that she treat the members of her own family with courtesy. No girl whose manners are disagreeable at home is going to know how to act when she is away from home.

And whenever you suspect that she is rude because she feels ill-at-ease or awkward in a particular situation make a note to tell her how to meet the same situation next time.

Above all, don't dismiss her lack of manners as just a phase she is going through. Good manners are important at every age — and the rude teen-ager suffers just as much from a lack of social grace as does an adult.

Polly's Pointers

Shortening a Knit Dress

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY—The best way I have found to shorten a knitted dress or skirt is to first run two rows of machine stitching all around the skirt at the desired new hemline. Then cut off the material just below the stitching. Unravel yarn from the discarded piece and use it to do a row of single crochet over the stitching and the raw edge.—MARIE

GIRLS—I have also done this with two rows of zigzag machine stitching and then turned back a one-inch hem that was then sewn in by hand. This was a machine-made knit, not a hand knit.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—To keep strips of material separated according to colors when you are making hooked rugs, place them between the pages of a magazine. For storing, roll up the magazine and put a rubber band around it. The strips will protrude at one end so you can see at a glance what colors you have.—MRS. A. S.

GIRLS—This should be a good time-saver when wool or floss in different colors are being used for embroidery. Just use a smaller magazine.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—Try this for fun at a bridal shower. As the guest of honor is ready to open each package, have the person who brought that one act out, charade fashion, how it is to be used. The guest of honor must guess what it is before opening it.—MRS. T. J. H.

DEAR POLLY — Immersing a tray of ice cubes in a pan of cold water saves time and wear on the nerves. The ice cubes float to the top very quickly. This is my neatest daily trick. The tray can be refilled and refrozen at once.—MRS. J. W. G.

DEAR POLLY — Paper sacks certainly come in handy in many ways but they are the hardest things to keep neatly in place. We folded them as they were originally folded and placed them all in one kitchen drawer over the top of which a piece of elastic has been stretched and thumbtacked. — P. G. C.

DEAR POLLY—If you have tie-back curtains, glue a round of cork on the wall and you won't put holes in the plaster with thumbtacks.—MRS. M. L.

GIRLS—This is a remedy for something I hope none of you is doing. Every time you put the thumbtack in the plaster you are running the chance of chipping out a little piece. Tiny loops on the ends of the tiebacks that slip over small cup hooks are far better. The cup hooks might even be put into a piece of cork as Mrs. M. L. suggested.—POLLY

Honor Boonville Agriculture Teacher

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Twenty-five teachers of vocational agriculture were given honorary American Farmer degrees today at the convention of the Future Farmers of America.

The degree is the highest the FFA gives non-members who work in the field of vocational agriculture.

Those honored included: Milburn Brewster, Booneville, Ark.; Claude C. Grieb, Doniphan, Mo. and Aryle A. Haire, Moore, Okla.

The guide became very angry when someone asked why the suicide rate in Denmark was so high when the welfare state provided such an ideal existence from the "Cradle to the Grave." He evaded the question but someone else volunteered that perhaps they keep better statistics.

Not every Dane approves of the welfare state. Certain income brackets do not receive all the benefits. The Danes still have a King and a Prime Minister and Folketing or Parliament and their constitution is only 100 years old.

Denmark is a small nation with a homogenous society, which makes many of their social laws adaptable. There is no unemployment at present. There are not many rich people nor many poor. Most everyone has a little space where flowers can bloom even if it is only a window box.

GIVE THE UNITED WA

EDITORIALS

No Zip From Warrensburg

The editor's office is a lunch hour library for several employees who formerly lived in Warrensburg. Available daily are a dozen newspapers from other towns, but the visitors invariably ask first for Col. Tucker's Star-Journal.

This daily newspaper in a town 30 miles west frequently does not arrive in the mail the day after publication as others do. My friends become perturbed about this and nudge me to complain to the post office. They really became vociferous when Monday's Star-Journal didn't arrive until Thursday morning.

"It's the Zip Code that's holding up the paper," they moan. "The mail sorters are causing the delay spending so much time looking for a zip number that isn't there. Write Col. Tucker about this."

I mentioned I would tell the colonel about this situation next time I saw him at a press meeting, but that wouldn't satisfy the protestors. They did agree that it would be all right for me to try a contact through this editorial column, just to see if the Warrensburg editor ever reads what the Sedalia editor writes about.

So, Col. Tucker, won't you ask your circulation department to put Sedalia's zip figure on the wrapper?

Or is this not encouraged by the P.O. regulations? The number is 65301. It may work faster although we have moody doubters here.

Belaboring the post office department as a whipping boy has become so chronic these days perhaps we should call attention to a practical innovation — the department's trucks.

We have been informed that a survey conducted by the post office shows accidents involving their trucks declined sharply simply as a result of switching from the age-old olive-drab paint to the bright red, white and blue so familiar today on our streets.

In this three-year-survey involving 7,000 vehicles, half painted olive drab and half red, white and blue the olive drab trucks had 849 accidents; the red, white and blue trucks had 652. Fifty olive drab trucks were struck from the rear; only 24 red, white and blue ones had that misfortune.

The conclusion: patriotic colors are more visible, thus contributing to highway traffic safety in every American community which is patriotism personified.

Who says the post office department is always wrong with its innovations?

Now about that zip number, Col. Tucker . . .

B. Kennedy Opens Attack on Gamblers

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson's associate, Jack Anderson, today writes the Washington Merry-Go-Round.)

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — A 47-man federal task force, using every trick in the enforcement trade, began a crackdown this week on gambling in the nation's capital.

It has received written instructions to utilize the latest eavesdropping equipment, to cultivate prostitutes and narcotic addicts as informants, to seek out people with grudges against known gamblers, to use tax pressure and sex misbehavior to force reluctant witnesses to talk.

Plainly, Attorney General Robert Kennedy wants the task force to give no quarter in the battle to break the gambling syndicate.

Kennedy's plans are known, however, to the top gamblers who managed to filch the confidential instructions from his files. Result: They hastily shut down gambling operations and lit out for the fleshpots of Miami Beach, Hot Springs, and Las Vegas.

Task Force A-20-631, as the special anti-gambling squad is known, consists of 25 FBI agents and 22 Treasury men under the direct control of the attorney general.

They haven't been deterred by the scattering of their quarry, who left plenty of tracks behind. For that matter, federal agents can stalk the gamblers wherever they light.

The task force's no-holds-barred instructions direct:

Prostitutes Can Help

"Maximum use of informants will be made by the task force. This will include all known individuals who have in the past volunteered data on various types of vice operations. In this connection, prostitutes, and known narcotic addicts are vulnerable to proposals from government investigators.

"Immunity from criminal prosecution can be a suitable reward for some individuals, who can be implicated by task force investigations. Dissatisfied petty gamblers and/or gambling clients should be exploited to give information.

"Monetary rewards can also be held out as an inducement for informants, but it is recommended that any public knowledge of this authorization be restricted."

The instruction sheet also suggests baldly: "It should first be determined if the proposed informant may be comprised through psychological makeup, sex activities, a promise of no action against his friends, and speedy justice to those who he may believe are corrupting the gambling circles. A more gentle approach can be made to legitimate individuals.

"Net worth of persons under investigation will be rechecked and reappraised in conjunction with data obtained through surveillance and informants. It is conceivable that pressure of this nature may be brought to bear against lesser figures in order to facilitate the obtaining of information relating to major operations."

Phone Company Cooperates

The agents will keep a check on suspects' phone calls through the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. which has "promised complete cooperation in the task force investigative assignments.

To Consider Value of Crime Probe

By J. W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Now that the Senate spectacular starring Joseph Valachi is at intermission, it might be a good time to consider whether it's worth all the hullabaloo.

The only legitimate purpose of a congressional investigation is to help establish whether Congress ought to pass new laws.

Congress' real job, of course, is passing laws.

On the surface, it would appear extremely doubtful that a gangster, dope peddler and convicted murderer could be of much help to Congress in the performance of its duty.

Who could believe such a character in the first place?

And, Washington being a suspicious town, these other questions arise:

How is it that the Senate cannot get around to voting on tax cuts, civil rights legislation and appropriations, yet has time for this show?

Could it be that the senatorial investigators are primarily interested in a golden opportunity to parade in print and on television?

There is no question about the show being a hit. It's a smasheroo on television.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., of the Senate Investigating subcommittee, announced at the outset that the real purpose was to see whether present laws are adequate to deal with crime syndicates.

He now reports the possibility of positive good coming out of the hearings.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy thinks them worthwhile too.

It may be recalled, incidentally, that both Kennedy and his brother, then senator now President, were rackets probes along with McClellan in their climbs to fame.

Atty. Gen. Kennedy testified early in the Valachi hearings. He said he'd like a new law granting the Justice Department more authority to use wiretap evidence against gangsters.

He also asked for a law to compel less culpable but bulky witnesses to testify against underworld big shots in conspiracy cases by granting them immunity from prosecution.

Valachi, already under life sentence, has been anything but balky. He has talked his head off. Indeed, McClellan points out that for the first time here's a witness reporting freely on the inside operations of a powerful crime syndicate.

The chairman says he thinks Valachi's story is important, even if "not especially new."

"It gives great credence," McClellan said, "to the proposition that such an organization (as La Cosa Nostra) exists, and that it constitutes a menace as a 'government' which regards itself as beyond the law."

In New York City, the supposed base of the syndicate, police say that in the past year they already have gone over everything Valachi has said, and that the murderers he names are dead, or if they are alive, there is no corroboration of the testimony.

It would seem unfair at this stage to dismiss the hearing as a spectacle, an exercise in futility. Public awareness of a bad crime situation could lead to remedies.

Still, the chief benefits so far may have gone to the publicized and televised senators.

The Doctor's Mailbag

Medicine Has Reduced Impact of Scarlet Fever

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q — How is scarlet fever transmitted? Can it be carried on postcards, letters, or by an adult who had the disease as a child?

A — Scarlet fever and the related diseases, septic sore throat and erysipelas, may be transmitted by direct contact with a person who has the disease or by a healthy person who harbors the hemolytic type of streptococcus in his nasal passages.

It is unlikely that transmission would occur through handling a postcard or letter, and it would not be transmitted by an adult who had had the disease unless he was a carrier.

The disease is not as severe at it was many years ago. Penicillin has done much to limit the duration of the illness, prevent the development of the carrier state and control the spread of the disease. Isolation of patients, formerly required for four weeks, is now required for only one week. The disinfection of bedding is readily accomplished by thorough cleaning and sunning. All in all, the disease is no longer a serious cause of death.

Q — For many years I have had attacks of blurred vision with zigzagging semicircles in front of my eyes. This lasts about half an hour and is followed by a severe headache. What causes this and is there any remedy?

A — You have given a perfect description of migraine. In some persons the episode of blurred vision is followed not only by a severe one-sided headache, but also by vomiting. Heredity or allergy may be factors in the cause, but in many victims no cause can be found. A relatively new drug, methysergide (Sansert), is effective in preventing this type of headache. It can be obtained only on a doctor's prescription.

Q — For the past few years I have been taking tablets daily to control spasms in my chest muscles. What could cause these spasms? My doctor says there's nothing wrong with my heart.

A — Muscle spasms can occur anywhere in the body, but are not often seen in the chest muscles. If your doctor found nothing seriously wrong with you, nervous tension probably plays a large part in causing your spasms. If after several years of taking medicine to control them the spasms are still present, I think you should omit the tablets for a while and see whether they were really doing you any good. You can always go back to them again if necessary.

Q — Where can I obtain some pamphlets on the venereal diseases?

A — This is a subject of ever-increasing importance. You can get the information you want from the American Social Health Assn. (1790 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10019). Also the United States Health Service put out pamphlets which you can get through your city, county or state health department.

Unemployment Drops To Lowest Level Of Year In September

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment dropped to the lowest level of the year in September—to 3,516,000—the Labor Department reported Thursday.

The decline of 350,000 in joblessness was accompanied by a dip of more than one million in employment as youths returned to school. So the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate edged up to 5.6 per cent of the labor force.

For both job-hunters and job-holders the decline was close to normal for the season, but it halted the summer's improvement in unemployment. The rate of joblessness had moved steadily down from 5.9 per cent in May to 5.5 per cent in August.

We the Women

Mom, It's Up to You

by Reth Millett,
Written for NEA

The kind of homemaker your daughter is going to be will depend almost entirely on the kind of homemaker you are. That is the essence of what mothers were told recently by the assistant principal of a junior high school, who didn't pull any punches when he talked to a group of parents about their children.

He said: "A mother must look to her own sloppy housekeeping, to the kind of job she is doing just being 'Mom', to her behavior preachment — for the blueprint at cocktail parties — not to of her daughter's moral development."

The women in the audience probably didn't relish such frank talk. But that kind of straight talk is needed today, when so many mothers are more concerned with whether their daughters are popular, than with whether they are developing the habits and qualities that will someday make them good wives and mothers.

Many a mother thinks that if she can give her daughter every "advantage" — from more clothes than she can get into her closet to being accepted by "the right crowd" — and if she can make her girlhood completely carefree and jam-packed with teen-age fun, she is doing everything for her.

The fact that when the daughter gets a husband she may not know anything about how to make a good home for him or how to keep him happy doesn't seem to enter mother's head.

She doesn't see beyond getting the daughter married, to the part she should be playing in seeing to it that her daughter will grow up to be the kind of woman who will make a good marriage and a good home for her children.

Often, too, such mothers are young, themselves, that they behave more like older sisters than like mothers they are—and ought to be happy to be.

The mother whose main interests are having a popular daughter and trying to look like daughter's sister just isn't preparing her daughter for the joys and responsibilities of family life.

WAF Training Pays Off

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY—The following tips are some I learned when I belonged to the WAF. When starching dark clothes that usually streak, add a little liquid coffee to the starch. Also for a fast cleaning in your bathroom, use rubbing alcohol on the sinks, mirrors, etc. The alcohol will take all soap scum off and shines the fixtures like new.—MRS. D.W.W.

GIRLS—The chrome fixtures in my bathroom look almost shinier than new after just a quick wiping with the rubbing alcohol. Would be good for that last-minute, quick tidying up before guests come.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—I use the grates on the burners of my gas stove for cooling racks. Set them on the countertop or table and place hot cakes or pies on them. Works as fine as the racks made especially for this purpose and they are always right at hand. Best of all you have more than one rack and they have not cost an extra cent.—MRS. A. McN.

DEAR POLLY—To eliminate digging to the bottom of the picnic basket for silverware, can openers, etc., take an old bath towel, fold it lengthwise one quarter turn, sew one-inch slots down the folded portion for the silver and larger slots for the can opener and other incidentals. The top of the towel can be folded over the silver and the compact "case" rolled up. This keeps the silver handy and eliminates rattling.—MRS. R. S.

GIRLS — Several years ago I made individual holders in this same style (like the flannel cases silver comes in from the jeweler) out of red and white checked tablecloth material. They have white cotton tapes tacked to the back that tie around the roll. Each roll contains a knife, fork and spoon so each guest, at a picnic or any outdoor meal, unfurls an individual roll, removes the silver and uses the case for a napkin.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—The tapes that come stitched inside the shoulder seams of most readymade dresses are a convenience for hanging them but can certainly become unruly when the dresses are worn. I snip them off to a length of about two and one-half inches, sew on snap fasteners and use them to secure my shoulder straps. My slip and bra straps are always in place, the little fasteners never show and there is no longer that worry of the long loops sticking out at the armhole of a sleeveless or short sleeved dress.—MRS. P. A. B.

DEAR POLLY—To strengthen shoelaces, just stitch along each one, lengthwise, three times on the sewing machine. This trick also does wonders in keeping silk shoelaces from coming untied so often.—MRS. E. DeM.

Gast haus, or goes off there in the evening. Many women drive taxis, serve as bar maids and operate the trolleys. In the rural areas they work in the fields, push the haycarts, while the men drive the horses or sit in the tractors.

German architecture is severe. The apartments are large rectangular boxlike buildings mostly gray. Some of the newer ones are colorful in shades of yellow, green, lavender and orange. All of them have balconies with flower boxes. Flowers are everywhere. Every circle and cafe is surrounded by vivid asters, geraniums, miniature sunflowers, petunias, giant cosmos, zinnias and dahlias. The wide strasses are lined with slender poplars and maples.

The cathedrals in Munich show a Byzantine influence and one expects to hear the voice of the minaret coming from the towers. The dancing figures on the Town Hall clock at eleven in the morning typify the skilled handicraft and genius of the workmen hundreds of years ago.

Walking along Schwabing at night to view the amateur artwork of students is an imitation of Montmartre in Paris or Greenwich Village in New York. Pictures may be purchased and donations asked "for beer" or a starving artist.

Munich, settled by Monks in the 13th century, retains much of its original charm, but the bombed areas remind its people of a tyrant who threw a whole world into war.

Clocks: All Sizes, All Shapes

CLOCK FILLS CORNER — Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Smith, 1819 East Broadway, are shown with their grandfather clock. It is an English clock and was made between 1805 and 1840.

Hundreds In Collections Of Area Men

By Larry Embry

TIME IS THE essence to a Sedalian and two area men whose clock collections number in the hundreds and are still growing.

Their homes are show-cases of the ingenuity of clockmakers whose craft produced more varieties and novelties than the casual observer would guess.

In their collections are huge clocks, tiny clocks, some that are beautiful, some grotesque, some that chime at intervals, some silent, novelty clocks that keep poor time but are amusing to observe, clocks that run, some that don't and others badly battered and stashed away to be put in working order next year or maybe the next.

B. G. Smith, 1819 East Broadway, was the first clock collector we met and he arranged visits with Carroll Thomas, Sweet Springs, and Glenn Blair, Stover. The Smiths, Thomases and Blairs are good friends, often trade about for clocks and parts and meet at collectors' conventions.

Smith, an employee of the 12-Mile Road District here, got his start in collecting with a clock which came from his wife's family. The clock was made in the early 1800's and had wooden inner works as did the earliest clocks made. Smith collected some more clocks and took up the hobby in earnest about three years ago when he became a member of the National Association of Watch and Clock Collectors.

Smith's collection ranges from a six-foot upright grandfather clock made in England between 1805 and 1840 to a Japanese stick clock. The latter works by weights, but alas only a Japanese can tell time by it. Outstanding in the Smith collection are his china clocks. These are quite heavy and their china cabinets are ornamented and painted in patterns much resembling fine china dishes.

Auctions often produce clocks that collectors are interested in and Smith relates he once spent all day at a sale waiting to bid on a heavy weight iron clock which had caught his eye. His bid finally took the clock and on inspecting it he found an unbargained for item — a dead mouse in its back.

Smith's wife has acquired skill in reverse painting on glass and these scenes are put onto the larger eight-day clocks covering the lower works.

Carroll Thomas, an employee of the International Shoe Company in Sweet Springs, is an authority on the history of his various clocks and is active in the national collectors' group.

"The national association was formed in 1943 and now has 4,025 active members," Thomas said.

The association publishes five bulletins a year containing news articles, photos and advertisements concerning the clock world. In addition four publications la-has a laced metal front and its dial has only one hand. Second from the upper left is a Columbus clock, a wooden commemorative clock made in 1892 on the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America. About 20,000 of these were produced. It has only one hand and is made entirely of wood.

jeled as "marts" are issued each year in which members may advertise their clocks before other collectors. The marts serve as a center of exchange.

A roster containing the name of each member is also published annually, Thomas pointed out. This is convenient for collectors who wish to view other collections while on trips throughout the country.

Smith, Thomas and Blair are members of the Heart of America chapter of the national association. The HOA chapter was organized in 1946 and was the 36th chapter in the nation at that time. There are now 46 chapters. On the roll of the HOA chapter are 44 members located in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Thomas recently needed to replace broken eagles on some three decker clocks he had acquired. He borrowed an eagle panel from Glenn Blair at Stover and carved three from walnut, thus enabling him to perfectly restore his clocks economically. The hand carving was so well done it is hard to tell the original from the copies.

The history behind practically every clock he owns can be related in detail by Thomas. He keeps several research volumes which establish dates for respective clock makers and describe their business activities.

As an example, Thomas has a clock with a crown wheel escapement made by John Brockbank, a London clockmaker. The Brockbank signature dates the clock as 200 years old.

A small novelty clock recently caught Thomas' eye and he confesses his weakness for it made him bid high. The tiny desk clock is about 2 inches wide and 3 inches tall. It was made by the Yale Clock Company, a firm which Thomas points out was in business for only three years. His clockmakers' record book proves the Yale clock was made between 1877-1881, the years the firm was in business.

Glenn Blair, Stover, excels in restoring the wooden portions of the old clocks he acquires and when he finishes they are probably in better shape than when they were first made. He operates a firm which manufactures gunstocks for pellet guns at Stover.

Blair and his wife travel considerably on weekends and each trip usually results in several additions to his collection. Along with his clocks he has picked up several disc-playing music boxes and a huge old coin operated nickelodeon, which he hopes to restore to playing order.

Technically, the science of watch and clock collecting is referred to as horology and Smith, Thomas and Blair would be horologists. Horology, however, encompasses the science of measuring time and horologists include clock manufacturers as well as collectors and dealers.

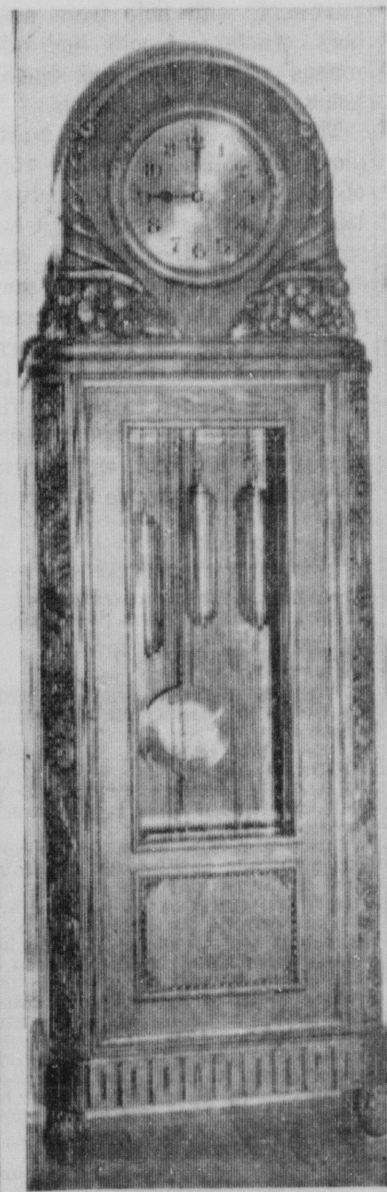

VERSATILE CLOCK — Carroll Thomas, Sweet Springs, and B. G. Smith, Sedalia, examine a grandfather clock belonging to Thomas which was made in London and is over 200 years old. The clock provides the time, date and moon phase. The door exposes heavy weights in its works.

an eight-day weight clock and a two-face perpetual calendar clock. The middle clock in the foreground has a string attached which when pulled causes the clock to strike the nearest hour. Thus the time can be told in the dark.

RESTORED LIKE NEW — This German grandfather clock owned by Glenn Blair, Stover, was refinished, lacquered, its brass face and weights polished and its works set in order to make it an attractive piece of furniture. The clock has a mellow chime. It has a mellow chime.

CALENDAR CLOCK—This Ithaca calendar clock is among the Glenn Blair collection. Although a wall clock, it is about six feet tall and relates the time as well as the day of the week and month with no hitch on Feb. 29 of leap year. An eight-day model, this clock hung for 60 years on one wall before Blair acquired it.

clock keeps poor time; a skeleton clock, its works are exposed; a trapeze clock, a tiny man on a flying trapeze swings as the clock ticks; a swinging arm clock and a musical chimes clock. Smith holds a Japanese stick clock.

THESE NEED REPAIRS — Glenn Blair and B. G. Smith examine two Ithaca calendar clocks Blair acquired on a recent clock hunting trip. The wooden backs are removed and the works given a thorough examination to determine what the clock needs to be restored to working order.

Background On Cuba To Soros Club

A speaker whose experiences leave Americans with sober thoughts of what can happen to a country, addressed Sorosis Monday afternoon, Oct. 7, at Heard Memorial Club House. He was Dr. Arturo Sanchez, exiled Cuban district attorney, who, with his family left his country and all his possessions to come to Kansas City in an effort to escape the Castro rule.

Speaking on the subject: "Castro's Cuba," Dr. Sanchez gave the background of Fidel Castro, a lawyer, who had come in to power. When he was a university student, Dr. Sanchez said, he had seen Castro.

Nobody realized that he was a Communist and he made many promises and painted wonderful pictures of projects he intended to carry out, the speaker said. But when he came into power, the government began taking over property illegally. He distributed land to the peasants and 70 per cent of Cuban land went under government control.

After four years of reform, however, the peasants were not interested in crops because the government got the profit, and Cuba had the lowest crops in 20 years. At one time Cuba had six million head of cattle—today Cuba can't get any kind of meat, he said.

The first things the government took over, Dr. Sanchez told the group, were some of the newspapers, radio and television stations. The government got control of finance in 1960. The sugar industry was supposed to be in the hands of the people but the militia got control and the government took over, as well as other industry. Then they took over banks and there was nothing people could do if there was anything wrong with their bank accounts.

Castro at first had been the hero of the country. By 1960 all of Cuba's newspapers were taken over by the country and freedom of the press was dead, he said. Then they were given ration books.

At one time Cuba had a ten year grade school, five year high school and five year university but later they graduated as engineers in three years and as doctors in 2½ years, he said.

The year 1961, he continued, was designated by the government as the year of education and all Cubans had to learn to read and write. There were 600,000 uneducated, he said, and teachers were to teach what the government wanted, so 80 per cent of the university professors left the country, and many of the Cuban children were sent to Florida.

People could leave their country as he did, Dr. Sanchez said, but it meant giving up all that they possessed. It meant leaving their home and all that was in it, all of their clothes except three garments and three changes of under garments. It meant leaving all of their money. When they went out of the country that was the end. But the government did not try to keep them because they had many people who would take the houses.

Mrs. Sanchez said that her mother lived near and wrote it was really hard to see them taking her daughter's things that she had loved so, out of her home, after they left.

When Dr. Sanchez and his family came to Kansas City, he said, he did not practice law because he is not an American citizen, so he MEXICO CITY (AP) — The government has ordered a shipment of relief supplies sent to hurricane-battered Haiti.

Accidents

There were no injuries reported in a two-car collision about two miles east of Sedalia on Highway 50 at 8:10 a. m. Thursday.

Involved, according to Highway Patrol Trooper Pete Stohr who investigated, were a 1959 Chevrolet, driven by Edgar Alan Phillips, 28, Independence, and a 1959 DeSoto, driven by Carolyn Marie Overstreet, 40, Route 2.

Stohr said Phillips was west-bound and had pulled off the road to close the hood on his auto. As he pulled back on to the pavement he met the Overstreet auto which was eastbound and passing a station wagon. Damage was estimated at $100 to both of the cars.

Myrtle Shafer, Route 1, was treated at Bothwell Hospital Thursday morning for lacerations to the left knee. She was treated by Dr. A. J. Campbell, then released.

Roland Kelley, 11, 1803 South Missouri, was treated at Bothwell Hospital for injuries to the left side of the head he received when he fell going home from school Wednesday afternoon. He was treated by Dr. A. J. Campbell, then released.

Freddie Leon Anderson, 28, Lakeview Heights, Mo., received a severe laceration of the lower right leg when he slipped and fell while descending from a caterpillar about 2:30 p. m. Wednesday south of Sedalia.

According to John Cover, of the Cover Construction Co., for whom Anderson was working, the two men were loading dirt on a truck. Anderson was getting off the large "cat" when he apparently lost his footing and fell. His leg struck a part of the machine, resulting in the laceration.

Anderson was brought to Bothwell Hospital in the Gillespie ambulance, was treated there and later taken to the office of Dr. Carl Siegel for further treatment.

Two cars, one of which was parked, were involved in an accident at 3:08 p. m. Thursday at 506 East Tenth.

Involved were a 1959 Chevrolet, driven east on Tenth by Edwin G. Scott, 16, 1405 South Prospect, and a 1955 Chevrolet, parked and owned by Margaret C. Smallwood, 506 East Tenth.

The right front of the 1959 Chevrolet and the left rear of the 1955 Chevrolet were damaged.

Police Reports

Two teenage Sedalia boys were picked up at 10:47 p. m. Wednesday night at 18th and Limit by Sedalia police in connection with the theft of some hubcaps.

An off-duty police officer, J. V. Phelps, saw the boys putting an object in their car at Hillcrest Lanes on South Highway 65, police said, and telephoned the information to police headquarters.

Deputy Sheriff Jack Couts was also notified and helped interrogate the two youths. Couts said one of the youths admitted taking four hubcaps, but said his companion was not implicated.

The youths were released to the custody of their parents and are to be taken before Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz Friday morning.

The four hubcaps and a transistor radio were recovered from the car the two boys were in. No report of a missing radio had been turned in, however.

One of the boys was listed as 18 years of age, the other as 17. Authorities have not linked the two with several other hubcap thefts which were reported to police Thursday morning.

A police report Wednesday night which started out as a beating, robbery and car theft incident, later proved to be a minor auto accident.

Police said they found Ellis D. Osbourn, 32, 1718 West 18th, lying beside a fence at the north side of the Corner Drive-Inn, 16th and Grand, at 11:30 p. m. Wednesday and he reported he had been struck in the head, robbed of $20 and his 1956 Plymouth station wagon stolen.

Investigation by police, however, revealed Osbourn had been involved in an auto accident and had reported the robbery as an apparent cover-up.

Police said Osbourn's station wagon struck the rear of a 1953 Ford driven by Susan G. Glenn, 16, 2021 South Grand, at 20th and Kentucky at 9:15 p. m.

Osbourn was given a police summons for careless and imprudent driving in connection with the accident.

At 11:50 a. m. Thursday police received a report that a .22 caliber pistol and three boxes of shells had been stolen from a M-K-T railroad caboose stopped a short distance from East Boonville Street.

Police recovered the weapon and three teenage boys were brought to police headquarters at 1 p. m. for further questioning.

Police said later investigation showed that the gun was taken

Mafia Is Traced To Detroit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Detroit's police commissioner traced the top hierarchy of "Mafia" crime there and said it raked in $150 million a year at a conservative estimate.

Its five top "dons" live in the lush suburbs of Grosse Pointe in luxurious houses, said Commissioner George C. Edwards. Four of the five were born in Sicily, and they are locked together by ancestry and intermarriage, Edwards said.

The commissioner took over the spotlight Thursday of the Senate Investigations subcommittee's hearings from Joseph Valachi, the mobster who recounted in his gravely voice his three decades in crime in five previous sessions before the committee.

Valachi's departure signaled a marked slackening of public interest in the hearings. Nobody waited in the hall Thursday to get in.

Unlike Valachi, Edwards called the crime organization the Mafia. Valachi had told the senators his New York criminals never used that term but called it "Cosa Nostra" meaning "our thing."

Edwards said Valachi's testimony corroborated in many ways what the Detroit police force has been able to find out from its own surveillance, without benefit of an inside informant.

Edwards said there have been 69 gangland murders in Detroit since 1927.

outside the city limits. The three youths, two juveniles and one 17-years-old, were to be turned over to Juvenile Officer Cecil Glenn and the Pettis County Sheriff's Department.

Police were called to the Broadway Arms apartments, Broadway and Lamine, Thursday afternoon, where a little girl was lost. The girl, Sherry McGinnis, 2, 1213 South Lamine, was taken home by Officer Clyde Nicewarner.

A 1951 Oldsmobile was towed to the police station Thursday after it had been abandoned by two boys at 1004 West Fourth. There was no license on the car.

Fires In City

A grass fire in the 2500 block of South Ohio burned off a large vacant lot, but firemen were able to quell the blaze before any damage was listed.

Firemen answered the alarm at 12:10 p. m. Thursday and used two booster lines to halt the fire.

A second grass fire alarm was responded to at 1:15 p. m. Thursday by firemen at East Third and the railroad tracks. No damage was listed.

Other Fires

A grass fire near Oak Grove School west of Sedalia burned off considerable acreage Thursday morning. Pettis County firemen answered the alarm and were at the scene until about 1:40 p. m.

High winds blew a grass fire across one farm and onto another about 11:23 a. m. Thursday, and it took the Pettis County Fire Department, with help from neighbors, tractors, scoops and other means about four and one-half hours to douse the flames.

The fire reportedly started along the Missouri-Pacific right-of-way, and burned off between 150 and 200 acres before it was stopped. The fire got its start on the Elmer Mewes farm, north of Gasoline Alley, burned across it and onto the Bill Phillips farm.

Two tanks of water from the truck were needed to put the fire out. Damaged were a pasture, corn field, hayfield and fences. No estimate of damage was available.
